

Football father arrested following fracas

Wilmington man arrested at football game in Lynnfield

WILMINGTON - A Wilmington man is facing a charge of assault and battery on a person over 60 years old following a physical altercation that took place at his son's football game.

William Lunt, 46, of 35 Woburn Street, was arrested in Lynnfield during the Wilmington High School vs. Lynnfield football game.

According to reports, Lunt was sitting on the Lynnfield side of the stands and was shouting obscenities while watching the game, and that, when he was asked not to use foul language, a shoving match ensued between Lunt and at least one other Lynnfield spectator. Lunt allegedly shoved John Roberto, the 78-year-old grandfather of a Lynnfield football player, at some point during the incident.

According to sources who wish to remain anonymous, the scenario played out quite differently than has been reported.

Lunt attended the game with his wife and his parents. They chose a seat on the Lynnfield side so that Lunt's elderly parents would not have to cross the field. It was allegedly a man sitting behind the Lunts who had shouted an obscenity, and it was Lunt who asked the man to watch his language. This reportedly resulted in more obscenities directed at the Lunts. Lunt then confronted the man, which initiated a shoving match and other people joined in.

Home Rule Petition passes easily

By JAYNE W. MILLER

TEWKSBURY - After 90 minutes of debate and six votes, Article 1, the Home Rule Petition, passed Special Town Meeting. Though both sides of the issue rallied strong numbers, the proponents prevailed in the end. Nearly all elected town officials supported the regulation, which cleared its first hurdle Tuesday night on a long road that might take a year before going into effect.

420 voters attended the meeting, a strong turnout for an autumn Special Town Meeting, brought out by the controversy surrounding Article 1, a Home Rule Petition designed to bring local regulation to pig farms within town borders through the use of best management practices for manure, nutrient, and pest plans.

"It was ultimately the decision of the voters that prevailed," said Michelle Walsh, a member of the Resident Advisory Committee formed by the Board of Health. Walsh drafted the article along with help from other South Tewksbury residents adversely

Dave McCue provides bone marrow for stranger in need

By CHARITY B. LEGVOLD

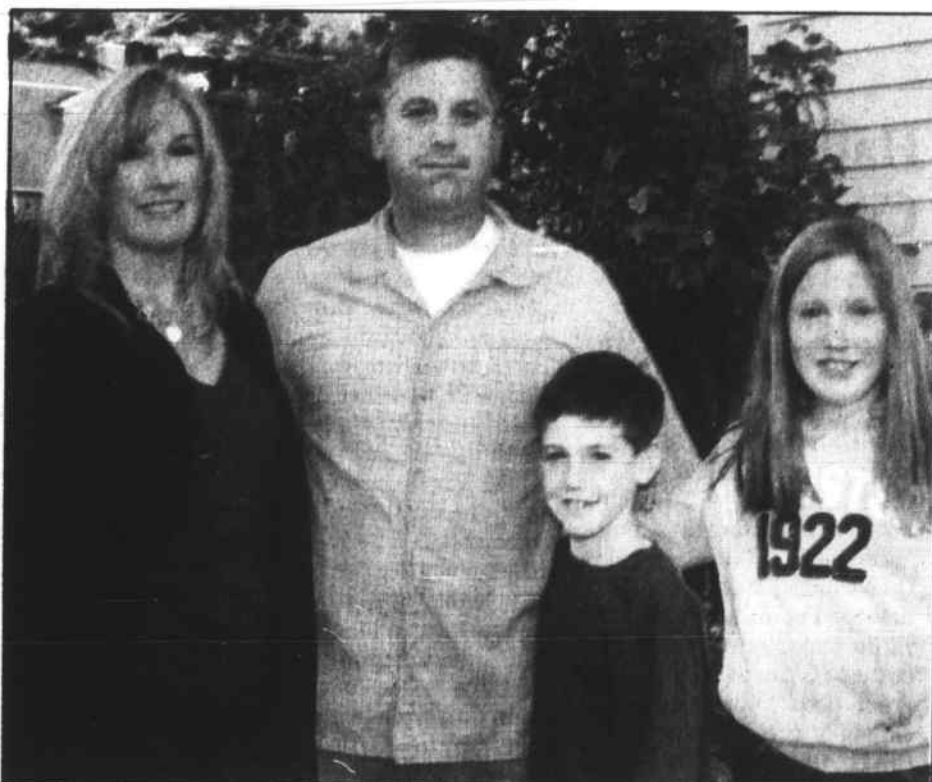

WILMINGTON - One Wilmington man recently gave of himself to help someone who needed a bone marrow transplant and now he shares his story with the hope that educating others about the need for bone marrow might help save other lives.

When Wilmington Police Detective Pat Nally and Officer Frank Hancock mentioned a blood drive at St. Dorothy's Church six months ago for a family member who needed blood, Police Sergeant Dave McCue answered that call. While giving blood McCue opted to join the National Bone Marrow Registry.

Being called so quickly as a match is unusual, but about a month and a half later McCue received a call to go in for further testing because he had been identified as a potential match. Further blood testing revealed that he was a definite match and he received a call asking if he was interested in going further into the process.

Following a full physical (including more blood work, X-rays, EKG, etc.), a harvesting date was set for September 19. In the weeks right before the procedure, two pints of blood were drawn and set aside for storage until McCue would need it right after the bone mar-

A service call 1,000 miles from home

By LARZ F. NEILSON

Recently the Town Crier ran the story of Louie and Dave Elfman's trip to Mexico City in May, 1952. In the story, there was mention of their stopping in South Carolina to take care of Buddy Starr's car. It seemed strange that Louie would make a service call for a car nearly a thousand miles from his garage, but that was what the Wilmington Crusader reported on May 14, 1952.

The reason for the service call was that Starr had died in Korea on March 15, 1952. He was 21 years old.

Arthur McDonald Starr was born in Medford on Dec. 12, 1930. He was the son of Arthur

M. Starr and Mary Starr. His father was a car inspector for the Boston and Maine Railroad. The family later moved to 58 Middlesex Ave., Wilmington, and Arthur, known as "Buddy," attended Wilmington public schools. In high school, he transferred to Lowell Tech, where he graduated in 1948.

He enlisted in the Army on May 6, 1948, and had re-enlisted before being sent to Korea. The official notification of death refers to him as a corporal, but the Wilmington Crusader article about his funeral refers to him as Sgt. Starr.

Starr's body was sent home on the SS Loma Victory. His

Generations of service

By CHARITY B. LEGVOLD

WILMINGTON - When 85 year old Florence "Flo" Johnson rode with the Rolling Thunder Motorcycles in Washington, D.C., she was not only remembering her family's past, but she was also thinking of her grandson, Marine LCPL Michael Johnson, of Wilmington who represents the fifth generation of the Johnson family to serve in either the Navy or the Marines.

For the past eight years Johnson has participated in a very special kind of service at the Vietnam Veterans Memorial in Washington, D.C. on Memorial Day. On Memorial Day, members of the Rolling Thunder Motorcycle organization transport a torch from California to the Pentagon where they form a motorcade that any veteran or their families, or anyone in attendance, is welcome to join. Gold Star Mothers (mothers who lost a child in war) ride

Letters to the editor

A very special thank you to my family

I want to thank my Husband Jim, my children, Kevin, Tracy, Leigh, Dennis and Chris for being here for me every step of the way during this difficult time. I am truly blessed, and I want you to know that I love each and every one of you so very very much.

Voting 'No' on Question 1

To the Editor,

As a person with an elderly mother, I was appalled to learn that if Question 1 passes, more than 15,000 senior citizens could lose their home care completely. That 3.4 million meals on wheels will not get delivered. Also $26 million in prescription drug benefits will be slashed. That is not a phone call I would like get from my mother, or anyone's mother.

I also do not want to be at the school committee meeting when our teachers get laid off, and sports and music programs get slashed to zero. I don't want to hear the stories of cities and towns desperately trying to raise property taxes, or the state having to double the sales tax. You know that other taxes will have to rise dramatically.

There have been tax rollback questions like this before. Several years ago, the voters defeated a similar ballot question repealing the income tax. Question 1 says that life is one big free lunch. That older people will somehow get by, and that our children will educate themselves. That cops and trash collectors, and teachers and visiting nurses will find some other line of work. How easy it is to knock "the government" and pretend that we have no role to play in all this, and that the only thing I should care about is taking care of myself.

I am voting No on Question 1, because I don't want the hurt this will cause hundreds of my neighbors to be on my conscience, and because I don't want to pay higher property or sales taxes to make up the differences.

Signed,
Theresa Smith

Betsy's Best Bets

by Betsy Woods McGuire

Reading is Fundamental

My masters and companions, my books (Joseph Hall)

Many years ago I had floor-to-ceiling bookcases custom built across one wall in my living room. To this day I find myself glancing up while reading, pausing and thinking about what each book means to me, how it affected me and why. Some books have much more meaning than others, although I'm "attached" to all of them. Regularly I'm asked if I've read all the books in the bookcase - usually by someone a lot younger, someone who grew up with the TV as babysitter and the computer as the printed word. I've probably read ten times what's in the bookcase - it's a generational thing. All of us, of a certain age, grew up reading. Just think, before the wide-spread popularity of the television, that's what people did - read! Today, how many of us can imagine our evenings without the TV (or several TVs) blasting away for hours.

For years I had a bumper sticker on my car that said "KILL YOUR TELEVISION." After it deteriorated I tried to find a replacement without success. Yes, I'm a television hater. I probably turn on the TV, to watch a particular show, maybe two or three times a year. That's it. In recent years I watch about fifteen minutes of the irritating-repeating-news, aka NECN, most nights but have to get out of the room before the overblown sports report. In general I find TV to be boring, far-fetched, annoying, sexist and/or offensive - not to mention the advertising.

Back when MediaOne was around, I connected "for good reception." One time I called to tell them that the cable wasn't working. After the usual questions (like "Is your TV plugged in?") she asked how long the cable had been out. I said I couldn't remember, which must have sounded odd considering most people never shut the thing off. So, she rephrased the question, asking when I noticed it wasn't working. I'm sure my answer went around the office that day at "The Cable Co." Five months back I had MediaOne change the cable connection from the living room (to make more room for books) to the back room. That was the last time the TV had been turned on.

When the subject of television comes up someone always says to me, "But there are some very good shows that you're missing." That's true, I agree, to a point, but there are only twenty-four hours in a day. So it's either sitting passively in front of a box that talks at you or you can roam the world, travel through time within your own mind, open any door and explore, let your imagination run, one-on-one.

Beyond the classics, some memoirs and those great novels that stick in our minds and touch us deeply, there are only a few books that actually "change our lives" for more than a day, a week or a month. Below are some of the books that strongly influenced the way I think and act, forever, I'm sure.

Saul Alinsky's RULES FOR RADICALS was written almost forty years ago. Born in Chicago and educated at the University of Chicago, Alinsky's work in organizing the poor to fight for their rights became nationally known. What makes this book the Bible of "mass organization for power" is its practical straightforward assessment of the odds of winning and the consequences of winning. For rebels, radicals, activists and ordinary political workers, Alinsky will make you think beyond emotion. Ever since reading this book not long after it was written, I pick my "causes" carefully, based primarily on the probability of victory.

THE STRANGER BESIDE ME, by Ann Rule, is the story of the notorious serial killer Ted Bundy. I have never walked between two parked 18-wheelers in daylight or pretended to know someone who I couldn't place, or looked at a tall, handsome, smooth and confident man the same way or let my guard down too soon because of charm or charisma, ever since reading this book many years ago. I made my daughter Jane read this book when she was only fourteen - this is not some crime story or murder mystery, this book is an eye-opener.

There are those times when I regret ever reading Edwin Newman's STRICTLY SPEAKING, his wry and funny, yet serious rant on the Death of English. After reading Newman's book, I took the pledge to never again use jargon, buzz words, fad words/expressions or clichés. At times I find myself tongue-tied trying to avoid a certain popular phrase, stammering away, sounding like I belong in the front lines at the kill.

The picture of Ruth Stout relaxing in a hammock and the title of her book, NO WORK GARDEN BOOK, was enough to stir my curiosity. After reading it, I immediately went on to read her earlier book, HOW TO HAVE A GREEN THUMB WITHOUT AN ACHING BACK. Totally converted, I became a "mulch" gardener and have continued to this day to follow the Ruth Stout school of mulch gardening. Basically her approach is to never till the soil, to plant in deep mulch, adding more mulch every year, which decomposes and feeds the soil, insulating it from dryness and discouraging weeds. Therefore, in theory, you should not have to feed, weed or water except in extreme conditions. Although I do water a bit and add some granular fertilizer occasionally, believe me, you won't find a weed anywhere!

YOU ARE EXTRA-ORDINARY, by Roger Williams, definitely changed the way I judge people - their talent, weaknesses and strengths. A professor of bio-chemistry, Williams' research goes far beyond the general understanding of individuality. His book delves deeply into how anatomically idiosyncratic each one of us is - and how our differences have molded us into so much of who we are. For instance, Williams shows pictures of twelve normal stomachs, all very different in shape and size, implying that they must operate differently too, partly explaining our individual eating habits. He shows a similar example of twelve very different looking normal livers, suggesting that alcohol tolerance and intolerance must be affected. Possibly atypical nerve endings in hands could account for manual dexterity. He includes neurology and the mind as well, and more. Williams' book has contributed greatly to our understanding of human nature.

Needless to say, my list is longer than this space allows but you get the idea. More so than any other pastime, reading shapes us and broadens our perspective. It's guilt-free and the pleasure never fades - it's exercise and nourishment for the mind - it's independent. And how convenient, you can do it just about anywhere.

Wilmington Cooks

by Paula Murphy

Mother and daughters, Beverly O'Connell Rooney, Shelley O'Connell Sainato, and Judy O'Connell are all lifelong Wilmington residents whose love of cooking began with Bev. Bev's parents, Walter and Doris Mercer, were raised in Newfoundland and settled in Wilmington during the early 1950's. Newfoundland's harsh weather conditions meant that Walter and Doris learned a steady diet of salted fish, salted pork, bologna, breads and canned beans. Even though America offered a wider variety of food choices, old habits were hard to break.

Growing up, Bev was especially close with her Aunt Olive. Olive Hayes held a Masters in Public Health and she was part of the research team in Washington, D.C. that created what became known as "The Four Food Groups." Olive's research articles are published in "The American Journal of Clinical Nutrition." Under her influence, Bev began experimenting with different recipes with an eye toward better nutrition, incorporating fresh fruits and vegetables into her family meals. Later, her mother-in-law, Marie Baldwin O'Connell, also of Wilmington, introduced her to different seasonings and cooking methods. Never one to follow a script, Bev relied on her instincts to create fabulous dishes to share with her family. Her daughters, Shelley and Judy, were always willing participants in the "test kitchen," and out of these experiments, several family recipes were born. Bev is now focused on making sure her grandchildren, Colin and Maddie Sainato, learn proper eating habits. "Nana" is known to shuttle little packaged meals down the street to Shelley & her husband Dave's house, then follow up with a phone call to make sure her special meals are enjoyed.

The O'Connell/Sainato/Rooney family has a pact to share a meal once a week, typically hosted by Bev and her husband, Jim. The family has grown to include Jim's children and grandchildren. Everyone now shares the fun of cooking, and each has settled into their established roles. Judy is the "Salad Queen," and Shelley is in charge of the annual fall "Soup Production" to fill the freezers. Bev will never be granted permission to pass the Thanksgiving torch. Sharing a dinner with family has always been a treasured pastime, with conversations as colorful and flavorful as the meal.

When not in the kitchen, Bev, Shelley, and Judy are all in the real estate business. They are the proud owners of EXIT Family First Realty in Wilmington.

Delicious Turkey Stuffing

2 tablespoons olive oil
1 pound sliced fresh mushrooms (can use shitake if desired)
3 stalks celery
2 onions, chopped
1 (20 ounce) loaf French or Italian bread, cut into one-inch cubes
1 (16 ounce) package herb-seasoned stuffing mix
4 eggs, beaten

2 teaspoons rubbed sage (try to use fresh)
2 teaspoons dried thyme (try to use fresh)
2 tablespoons garlic powder (you can also use fresh garlic)
salt and pepper to taste

2. Dampen the fresh bread cubes (not the stuffing mix), then squeeze out any excess water.
3. In a large bowl, combine

4. Loosely pack stuffing inside turkey cavity before roasting.

You may notice the stuffing tastes a bit too spicy before cooking, but it loses some of its strength during the cooking process so don't alter the amounts in fear of it being too strong.

Wilmington Cultural Council seeks funding proposals for community-oriented arts

The Wilmington Cultural Council has set an October 15th, 2008 deadline for organizations, schools and individuals to apply for grants that support cultural activities in the community.

According to Council spokesperson Linda Molloy, these grants can support a variety of artistic projects and activities in Wilmington - including exhibits, festivals, short-term artist residencies or performances in schools, workshops and lectures.

The Wilmington Cultural Council will also entertain funding proposals from schools and youth groups through the PASS Program, a ticket subsidy program for school-aged children.

The Wilmington Cultural Council is part of a grass-roots network of 329 local councils that serve every city and town in the state. The program is the largest, most decentralized one of its kind in the United States.

The state legislature provides an annual appropriation to the Massachusetts Cultural Council, which then allocates funds to each local council. This year, the Wilmington Cultural Council will distribute about $4,200 in grants.

Contact Jane Crane, Wilmington Cultural Council Chair, at 978-658-9798 for specific guidelines and information.

Application forms and more information about the local Cultural Council Program are available on the web at www.mass-culture.org/lcc public asp.

Easter Seals and Century 21 team up for Parade of Homes

Have you ever driven by a house and wondered what it looked like inside or have you been looking for new ways to decorate your own home and at the same time help a good cause? Well, Easter Seals and Century 21 have the solution for you. It is the fifth annual Parade of Homes taking place on Saturday, October 18, 2008 from 12 Noon to 4:00 p.m. in North Reading and Wilmington. The money raised will be donated directly to Easter Seals to help people who have been disabled as the result of illness, accident or aging.

The way the Parade of Homes is run is that the public is invited to see different styles, sizes, locations and market values throughout North Reading and Wilmington. The houses that are featured on the Parade of Homes are not currently for sale, but Century 21 has asked their friends and neighbors to showcase their homes in order to raise money for Easter Seals. "Much like a traditional open house that we conduct while marketing a property, we invite the public to see the interiors of these homes for decorating ideas, kitchen and bath designs, landscaping accomplishments and a whole lot of amenities that we envision as features that visitors might like to take back home with them," explained Broker/Owner Dave O'Neil.

Joyce Spindler also of Century 21 shared her thoughts on the event, stating that "We at Century 21 are thrilled to be able to give back to the community! "Easter Seals helps

119th Gowing family reunion

The Gowing Family Association held its 119th reunion on Sat., Sept. 20, 2008, in Fellowship Hall at the Congregational Church, Wilmington. Relatives in attendance were from Wilmington, Reading, Billerica, Brockton, Marshfield, Medway, Danvers, Barre, MA., Maine and Delaware.

After luncheon and visiting a brief business meeting was held, Pres. Richard Bedell presiding; Dorrie Verdy Sec/Treas.

This year marked the fifth consecutive year meeting at the church. In 1930, the 42nd reunion was also held there. From 1959 to 2003, the family met at Camp Nashoba, Littleton, MA., a day camp owned by past Pres. Jean Bedell Seaward and her husband, Bob. Previous to that many reunions were held in the grove behind 48 & 56 Burlington Ave., Wil. Very early meetings were held at Thompson's Grove, The Elms, and two were held at the Wilmington Town Hall; although member's homes in Wilmington and surrounding towns proved the most popular meeting places.

Since 1887, there have been only three years when meetings were not held - 1890, 1899, and the last in 1935, the year long time Sec/Treas. Carolin Swain passed away. Next year will mark the 120th reunion and plans are already underway for the celebration.

Tough time for Krochmal at Town Meeting

affected by overwhelming farm odors in recent years. In what has become a very public debate over the last year following the development of the website TewksburyOdor.org, residents and town officials identified the source of the odor as the piggery operations at Krochmal Farm on South Street.

Debate on the measure began with the introduction of a lengthy amendment by clearing up language within the documentation making it more in line with statutes. Most of the suggestions came from Town Counsel, Charles Zaroulis.

Moderator Warren Lane declared the first vote, a voice vote, on the amendment failed, mainly because opponents shouted louder. Proponents called for a standing vote, which passed the amendment 242 to 122. The moderator then called for a standing vote on the article as amended, which also passed 235 to 127. A simple majority was needed for passage.

However, that was not the end of discussion. A citizen petitioned the moderator for reconsideration of the vote because he did not call for discussion on the article as amended before taking the vote. Initially Layne opposed reconsideration, it having been written out of the bylaws except in the case of procedural defect, scrivener's error, or an oversight.

"I think the procedure is in defect," said Planning Board member Robert Fowler. "I think we should reconsider this article."

Richard O'Neill, one of only two members of the School Committee to attend the meeting, Mike Kelley being the other, made the motion to reconsider, which passed 190 to 150.

"Mr. Cave cares about this community," said Dave LaVita, a 25-year resident and first speaker following the reconsideration vote. "Krochmal Farms is ready to install a new system. Let's give the new system a chance."

LaVita decried "special interest groups" and drew derision when he warned that the article would "be like an axe over the head" of other businesses in town that generate odors, like Chinese restaurants and auto body shops.

The article is strictly limited to swine operations.

Another resident accused proponents of stealing "Vote NO" lawn signs, but Jane Benfey, another member of the Resident Advisory Committee, said her Vote Yes sign was also stolen.

"I would like to say that confusing the issue by bringing up Chinese restaurants is not helpful," said Benfey, adding that 363 signatures on the petition were collected in a matter of days in a small neighborhood. She encouraged the new system Krochmal Farms is planning to implement, but stopped short of changing to a "no" vote. "For three years people have been asking for relief and only now are we being told any relief is in sight. Give the Board of Health the authority they need, and if they don't need to exercise it, fine."

No one from the Board of Health spoke on the measure at the meeting.

Jan Cave, owner of Krochmal Farms with her husband John, stood at the microphone and spoke about raising her four children and six grandchildren on the farm, talked about the green farming practices in use there, and criticized speakers at the public meeting at the Trahan School last month, TewksburyOdor.org, and signature gathering methods for the petition.

While some tried to call her for time, the moderator protected her time to speak.

"America needs more family owned farms," said Cave, citing instances of unsafe food imported from Mexico and China in recent months. She also likened the petition to micromanagement of state and federal laws.

The Cave's are waiting for the awarding of a grant to help fund an expensive new system to manage odors. Cave called on Representative Miceli to "better help his community" by helping to get grants pushed through Beacon Hill.

Another resident attacked comments that she viewed as trying to mislead town meeting about the article. "I know what is fact and what is fiction," said Phaedra D'Ambrosio. "I will not be bullied nor fooled."

Neighbors all around the farm, on both sides of the issue, stood to offer support to one side of the issue or the other. Some criticized Dave Powers who began the TewksburyOdor.org website. Renee Brooks, who lives adjacent to the farm, proclaimed the odor as having been much better over the last year. Another resident of Jennie's Way, who has lived in Tewksbury for 30 years, always found the farm odors acceptable up until three years ago. She asked what proof do residents have that Krochmal Farms will follow through on its promise.

"If you are going to go through with all these measures," said the woman. "you should not be afraid of this article."

Dave Powers stood to support the article as a "reasonable solution" to the problem and stated that he has not tried to close the farm despite accusations to the contrary.

"If the farm owners are going to give us the finger and say 'get used to it', then there has to be a solution and the solution is this article," said Powers.

Ed Sullivan called for a solution derived from neighbors working together.

"If you put this through you are closing the farm," said Sullivan, not elaborating on how the measure would force it to shutter.

"Let it be known that Krochmal Farms is and has been in compliance with Federal and State regulations," said John Cave, Senior. He spoke about the new system he and his son, John, Jr., plan to put in place pending funding from a grant, and asked for a "no" vote in order to give time for the system to work.

Representative Jim Miceli spoke briefly, announcing the support of the state house delegation for the article and cast some doubt on the existence of the grant the Cave's talked about. Following the vote though, LaVita, a friend of the Caves, showed press information on the grant, saying it is now only waiting for gubernatorial approval.

A vote on indefinite postponement failed 136 to 238. A vote to move the question passed at 248 to 115. Finally, a standing vote on the article passed 245 to 137.

Nearly all town officials stood in support of the measure which now heads to Beacon Hill for the delegation to work on. The Home Rule Petition will have to pass both the House and the Senate before it will go into effect.

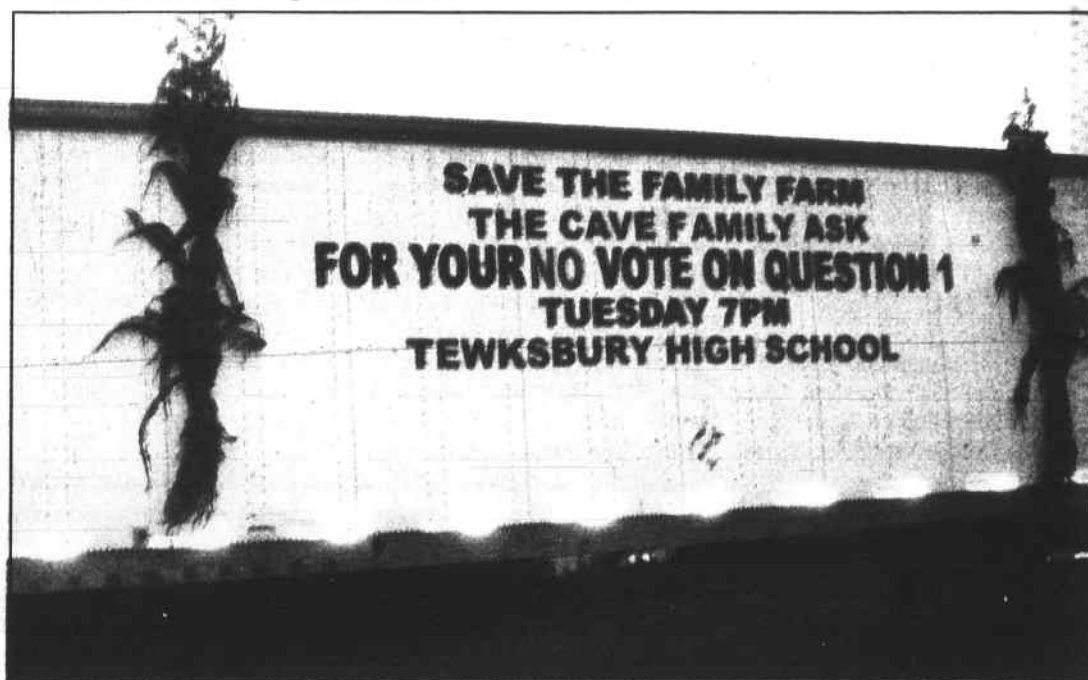

"He's gotten this whole ball rolling and I'm really proud of him," said Kathleen Powers, spouse of Dave Powers.

All other articles on the Town Meeting Warrant passed, some with minor amendments, with the exception of Article 11, which was indefinitely postponed. Opponents of the measure, which sought to save $10,000 by not printing and distributing Annual and Special Town Meeting Warrants and instead using the town's website to disburse the information. An amendment introduced by Elizabeth Carey offered printed copies at various town offices in addition to the website, was approved, but rendered null when the article was defeated by indefinite postponement.

The town also passed two Planning Board generated articles that aimed to set zoning for Adult Use Establishments. By not having any zoning set aside expressly for that use, the town risked having to allow a future establishment to go anywhere. This way, any such future business would be limited to space off Route 133 in the Office Research District, a spot near the Great Swamp, and another area on currently undeveloped land near the proposed mall site near I 93. There are not currently any projects in development to create an adult use establishment at this time.

Article 14 passed establishing a Groundwater Protection District along a section of the town's border near Wilmington and Silver Lake in order to protect Wilmington's groundwater supply.

Finally, in Articles 15 through 18, the town agrees to sell off parcels of land taken by tax foreclosure and put the properties back on the tax rolls.

A tractor trailer unit advocating for a 'No' vote on Article 1 of the Tewksbury Special Town Meeting was parked across from Tewksbury Country Club. The Article passed overwhelmingly.

WHS Boys Soccer

Wildcats riding seven game winning streak

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

On Monday night, the Wilmington High School boys' soccer team all but dominated the entire 80 minutes against Triton Regional. The Wildcats had all kinds of scoring chances, not to mention possessing the ball almost the entire way, limiting the Vikings from doing nearly anything offensively, or even generating something from the midfield.

Senior Jason Pereira scored his eighth and ninth goals of the season, and Jon Spurr added the other one as Wilmington cruised to a 3-0 Cape Ann League victory played in front of the home crowd on a chilly evening.

The win against Triton, came just a few days after Wilmington polished off Hamilton-Wenham, 2-1, also at home. The two opponents, Triton and Hamilton-Wenham had combined records of 9-3-2 before facing the 'Cats.

With the two victories, Wilmington is now 7-1-0 on the season. The Wildcats have now won seven games in a row, and have outscored its opponents 26-7 on the season, and 24-3 after the first game, a non-league loss to Haverhill. The defending co-champs of the league, are currently in a three-way unbeaten tie for first place in the standings with North Andover (6-0-1 in the league and 9-1-1 overall) and Masconomet (6-0-0 in the league and 9-0-0 overall).

In addition, the Wilmington program is now 20-3-4 dating back to the start of the 2007 season, with three losses coming to North Andover and Stoneham (in the state tournament) last year, and Haverhill this season.

Besides the total domination over Triton on Monday, Wilmington utilized its best strength to defeat a very good and physical Hamilton-Wenham squad on Thursday.

"Hamilton-Wenham was another good, tough win," said head coach Steve Scanlon. "In that game we had two more kids scoring, so now we have nine different goal scorers this season and that's huge."

Senior Bobby Folk scored his first varsity goal, taking a long throw-in from teammate Michael Murphy, and booting it to the back of the net for the 1-0 lead. Sophomore Chris DiCecca then gave Wilmington a nice cushion. Fullback Gott Seanchandi took a free kick and blasted one to the other side of the field. DiCecca came bursting through the seams split two defenders and buried one past the keeper for what turned out to be the game-winning goal against the Generals.

"They are a good team. They were physical, but I thought our kids played a much more disciplined game," said Scanlon.

On Monday night, Wilmington was off its game just for the first few minutes, before coming together and taking care of business, taking care of its scoring chances and taking care of another opponent.

"I thought once we settled down, we started to pick (Triton) apart," said Scanlon. "We talked at the half about ramping it up, and we had our chances in the first half to put the game away. You don't want to allow teams to hang around and we seem to be learning that. And my defense was real good. In the first half, there was one shot taken on net. That's all they had in the first half. All in all, I'd say we're doing pretty well."

With just under ten minutes to go in the first half, Pereira got the Wildcats on the board. Hanging around off the right hand post, Pereira received a nice cross pass from sophomore Andrew Owens, who was buried in the far left corner. Pereira took the ball, lunged forward to beat a defender to it, and snuck a low shot to the far left post making it 1-0.

The score remained that way at the halftime break after Wilmington missed a golden opportunity to net another one in the closing minutes of the first half. But just a minute into the second half, Pereira took a throw-in and slipped one by the keeper making it 2-0. Spurr then finished off the scoring in the seventh minute of the second half.

Besides Owens, Murphy, Caleb Rogers and Kevin Flaherty had single assists. Keeper Marty Bamberg made two saves to post his fourth shut out as he got help from fullbacks, Colin Foley and Jim Marra, who both played well.

Wilmington will now face four teams who will be fighting to keep their seasons alive. A loss for any of the team's next four opponents, Lynnfield (3-4-2) on Wednesday with results not known as of presstime, Manchester-Essex (1-3-4) on Friday, Pentucket (3-3-2) on Tuesday and Rockport (3-5-3) next Thursday, will really put a dampen on their chances of reaching the post-season.

Wilmington High senior forward Jason Pereira has scored nine goals this season, including six in the past four games helping the Wildcats improve their record to 7-1-0 overall.

Today there's Jason Pereira. The senior scored two more goals in Monday night's 3-0 win over Triton Regional, giving him nine for the season in just eight games. Over the last four games, he's registered seven of his nine tallies, and has been extremely hot with the ball.

"He's a goal scorer," said head coach Steve Scanlon. "He's a finisher. There are those who are creators and there are the finishers. He'll finish the season probably with one assist, because he's a finisher. He's a smooth goal scorer."

The best part about Pereira's run, is he isn't doing it alone. The Wildcats currently stand at 7-1 on the season and nine different kids have registered at least one goal this season. Pereira said that he's really not surprised with how well the team has done thus far.

"I'm a little surprised," he said. "We lost a lot of players from last year's team, so I didn't know what to expect. I knew we would have a good team, and now we're playing really well together."

While he's been one of the keys offensively, Pereira said that a handful of his teammates have really stepped it up on the defensive end.

On Monday night, those defenders played extremely well, and limited the Triton Vikings to just two shots on net throughout the entire game. Wilmington dominated play, dominated possession and polished off three of the many scoring chances it had, including two from Pereira.

"He's a guy who doesn't have to tear the net off the thing," said Scanlon. "He knows right where to position the ball. He's capable of scoring 15 goals - he's streaky like that. He's doing well. He's right on pace with how many he scored for us last year."

With less than ten minutes to go in the first half of a scoreless game, Pereira scored his first of two goals Monday night, which became the game-winning tally. Sophomore striker Andy Owens took the ball up the left side of the field before turning and sending a nice cross pass to the far post, where Pereira stood. The ball came towards the direction of Pereira, who lunged forward to beat a Triton defender to it, and with one touch he sent the ball back to the left hand corner, nicely placed to give the Wildcats the 1-0 lead.

"Andy had a nice cross from the corner and I was in the right spot at the right time," described Pereira.

Just a minute into the second half, Wilmington officially started to put the game away. Caleb Rogers headed a throw-in towards Pereira's direction, and this time he placed a one-touch shot to the low inside post, making it a 2-0 game.

"I'm trying to learn (to place the ball)," said Pereira. "I'm just trying to pick my spots. It's not an easy thing to do."

It's certainly not an easy thing to do, but thus far Jason Pereira seems to have a pretty good grasp on it.

Wilmington students who participated in a Pan-Mass bike ride at the Boutwell School were awarded with new bikes donated by the generosity of the Kiwanis Club and Wal-mart of North Reading last Wednesday evening. The students include from left, Colin Rooney, Hailey Collins, Madison Knibbs, and Sara Bray. The four of them helped raise a combined total of 2,400 dollars. Along with the students are Carolyn Priem and Sue Hendee, the coordinators of the ride who presented the bikes along with Safety Officer Brian Moon.

Tough time for Krochmal at Town Meeting

affected by overwhelming farm odors in recent years. In what has become a very public debate over the last year following the development of the website TewksburyOdor.org, residents and town officials identified the source of the odor as the piggery operations at Krochmal Farm on South Street.

Debate on the measure began with the introduction of a lengthy amendment by clearing up language within the documentation making it more in line with statutes. Most of the suggestions came from Town Counsel, Charles Zaroulis.

Moderator Warren Lane declared the first vote, a voice vote, on the amendment failed, mainly because opponents shouted louder. Proponents called for a standing vote, which passed the amendment 242 to 122. The moderator then called for a standing vote on the article as amended, which also passed 235 to 127. A simple majority was needed for passage.

However, that was not the end of discussion. A citizen petitioned the moderator for reconsideration of the vote because he did not call for discussion on the article as amended before taking the vote. Initially Layne opposed reconsideration, it having been written out of the bylaws except in the case of procedural defect, scrivener's error, or an oversight.

"I think the procedure is in defect," said Planning Board member Robert Fowler. "I think we should reconsider this article."

Richard O'Neill, one of only two members of the School Committee to attend the meeting, Mike Kelley being the other, made the motion to reconsider, which passed 190 to 150.

"Mr. Cave cares about this community," said Dave LaVita, a 25-year resident and first speaker following the reconsideration vote. "Krochmal Farms is ready to install a new system. Let's give the new system a chance."

LaVita decried "special interest groups" and drew derision when he warned that the article would "be like an axe over the head" of other businesses in town that generate odors, like Chinese restaurants and auto body shops.

The article is strictly limited to swine operations.

Another resident accused proponents of stealing 'Vote NO' lawn signs, but Jane Benfey, another member of the Resident Advisory Committee, said her Vote Yes sign was also stolen.

"I would like to say that confusing the issue by bringing up Chinese restaurants is not helpful," said Benfey, adding that 363 signatures on the petition were collected in a matter of days in a small neighborhood. She encouraged the new system Krochmal Farms is planning to implement, but stopped short of changing to a 'no' vote. "For three years people have been asking for relief and only now are we being told any relief is in sight. Give the Board of Health the authority they need, and if they don't need to exercise it, fine."

No one from the Board of Health spoke on the measure at the meeting.

Jan Cave, owner of Krochmal Farms with her husband John, stood at the microphone and spoke about raising her four children and six grandchildren on the farm, talked about the green farming practices in use there, and criticized speakers at the public meeting at the Trahan School last month, TewksburyOdor.org, and signature gathering methods for the petition.

Besides the total domination over Triton on Monday, Wilmington utilized its best strength to defeat a very good and physical Hamilton-Wenham squad on Thursday. "Hamilton-Wenham was offensively, or even generating something from the midfield. Senior Jason Pereira scored his eighth and ninth goals of the season, and Jon Spurr added the other one as Wilmington cruised to a 3-0 Cape Ann League victory played in front of the home crowd on a chilly evening.

The win against Triton, came just a few days after Wilmington polished off Hamilton-Wenham, 2-1, also at home. The two opponents, Triton and Hamilton-Wenham had combined records of 9-3-2 before facing the 'Cats.

With the two victories, Wilmington is now 7-1-0 on the season. The Wildcats have now won seven games in a row, and have outscored its opponents 26-7 on the season, and 24-3 after the first game, a non-league loss to Haverhill. The defending co-champs of the league, are currently in a three-way unbeaten tie for first place in the standings with North Andover (6-0-1 in the league and 9-1-1 overall) and Masconomet (6-0-0 in the league and 9-0-0 overall).

In addition, the Wilmington program is now 20-34 dating back to the start of the 2007 season, with three losses coming to North Andover and Stoneham (in the state tournament) last year, and Haverhill this season.

another good, tough win," said head coach Steve Scanlon. "In that game we had two more kids scoring, so now we have nine different goal scorers this season and that's huge."

Senior Bobby Folk scored his first varsity goal, taking a long throw-in from teammate Michael Murphy, and booting it to the back of the net for the 1-0 lead. Sophomore Chris DiCecca then gave Wilmington a nice cushion. Fullback Gott Seanchandi took a free kick and blasted one to the other side of the field. DiCecca came bursting through the seams split two defenders and buried one past the keeper for what turned out to be the game-winning goal against the Generals.

"They are a good team. They were physical, but I thought our kids played a much more disciplined game," said Scanlon.

On Monday night, Wilmington was off its game just for the first few minutes, before coming together and taking care of business, taking care of its scoring chances and taking care of another opponent.

"I thought once we settled down, we started to pick (Triton) apart," said Scanlon. "We talked at the half about ramping it up, and we had our chances in the first half to put the game away. You don't want to allow teams to hang around and we seem to be learning that. And my defense was real good. In the first half, there was one shot taken on net. That's all they had in the first half. All in all, I'd say we're doing pretty well."

With just under ten minutes to go in the first half, Pereira got the Wildcats on the board. Hanging around off the right hand post, Pereira received a nice cross pass from sophomore Andrew Owens, who was buried in the far left corner. Pereira took the ball, lunged forward to beat a defender to it, and snuck a low shot to the far left post making it 1-0.

The score remained that way at the halftime break after Wilmington missed a golden opportunity to net another one in the closing minutes of the first half. But just a minute into the second half, Pereira took a throw-in and slipped one by the keeper making it 2-0. Spurr then finished off the scoring in the seventh minute of the second half.

Besides Owens, Murphy, Caleb Rogers and Kevin Flaherty had single assists. Keeper Marty Bamberg made two saves to post his fourth shut out as he got help from fullbacks, Colin Foley and Jim Marra, who both played well.

Wilmington will now face four teams who will be fighting to keep their seasons alive. A loss for any of the team's next four opponents, Lynnfield (3-4-2) on Wednesday with results not known as of presstime, Manchester-Essex (1-3-4) on Friday, Pentucket (3-3-2) on Tuesday and Rockport (3-5-3) next Thursday, will really put a dampen on their chances of reaching the post-season.

WHS Sports Round-Up

Field Hockey team picks up second win

By JAMIE POTE
& MIKE IPPOLITO

If the Wilmington High School Field Hockey program is going to get back on track, in terms of wins, than small steps have to be taken. That seems to be the case with first-year head coach Jodi MacKenzie.

MacKenzie and the Wildcats picked up their second win of the season on Tuesday, a 2-1 road victory against North Reading, in a game that was originally scheduled last week. Before that the 'Cats were defeated by Rockport, 3-1, on Monday afternoon at home, and then lost 5-0 to Lynnfield last Wednesday. The 1-2 week pushes the team's record to 2-10 overall.

"We're a good team and the girls play really well together," said MacKenzie. "The problem is we just can't score. I hear all of the time from other coaches in the league and officials how much we have improved and how well we play together and that's very comforting that people are noticing."

Danielle Sughrue was brought up from the JV team after scoring three goals on Monday afternoon. The forward immediately made a presence as she scored the first Wildcat goal coming in the first half in Tuesday's win over North Reading. Late in the second half, Laurel Pickett scored what turned out to be the game-winning goal. With the loss, North Reading is now 0-9-2 on the season, and that came after finishing last year with a 1-17-1 record, the only victory coming against Wilmington.

Despite picking up the second win of the season, MacKenzie said a baby step was taken, but there's plenty more to take.

"It was a little scary," she said of the win over the Hornets. "Obviously we pulled through with the win, but it seems like our play is determined on who we play. If we play a weaker team, we play to their level, and if we play a tough team, we play right with them. I think we got lucky (on Tuesday) because we didn't play well, and we still got the win."

The day before, MacKenzie really thought her team was making a breakthrough in the 3-1, loss to Rockport.

"We were up 1-0 at halftime and I think the girls got into a comfort zone," said MacKenzie. "They scored a goal and when halftime was over, the party was over. Rockport of course comes out of halftime stronger and we didn't answer that. The thing with these girls is they get stuck, and they get down on themselves after they give up a goal. It's very hard bringing them back. They just don't have that killer instinct yet. But they will."

Before the Rockport game, Wilmington had been outscored, 28-2, and now in the past two games have been outscored 4-3, meaning both the offense and defense has been playing better.

"I love my defense," said MacKenzie. "Liz Crannell has played awesome. She's just been fantastic. I've moved her to center-midfield from defense, and she's just everywhere on the field. She doesn't give up. She has a fantastic drive and she's consistent with it. And the other girls on defense Jackie Lyman and Liz Jaeschke, are also playing really well."

Wilmington faced Hamilton-Wenham (2-8-1) on Wednesday with results not known as of presstime, before going on the road for its next three games with stops to Masconomet Regional (7-2-3) on Friday, Pentucket Regional (3-6-2) on Monday, and Newburyport (6-2-3) on Wednesday.

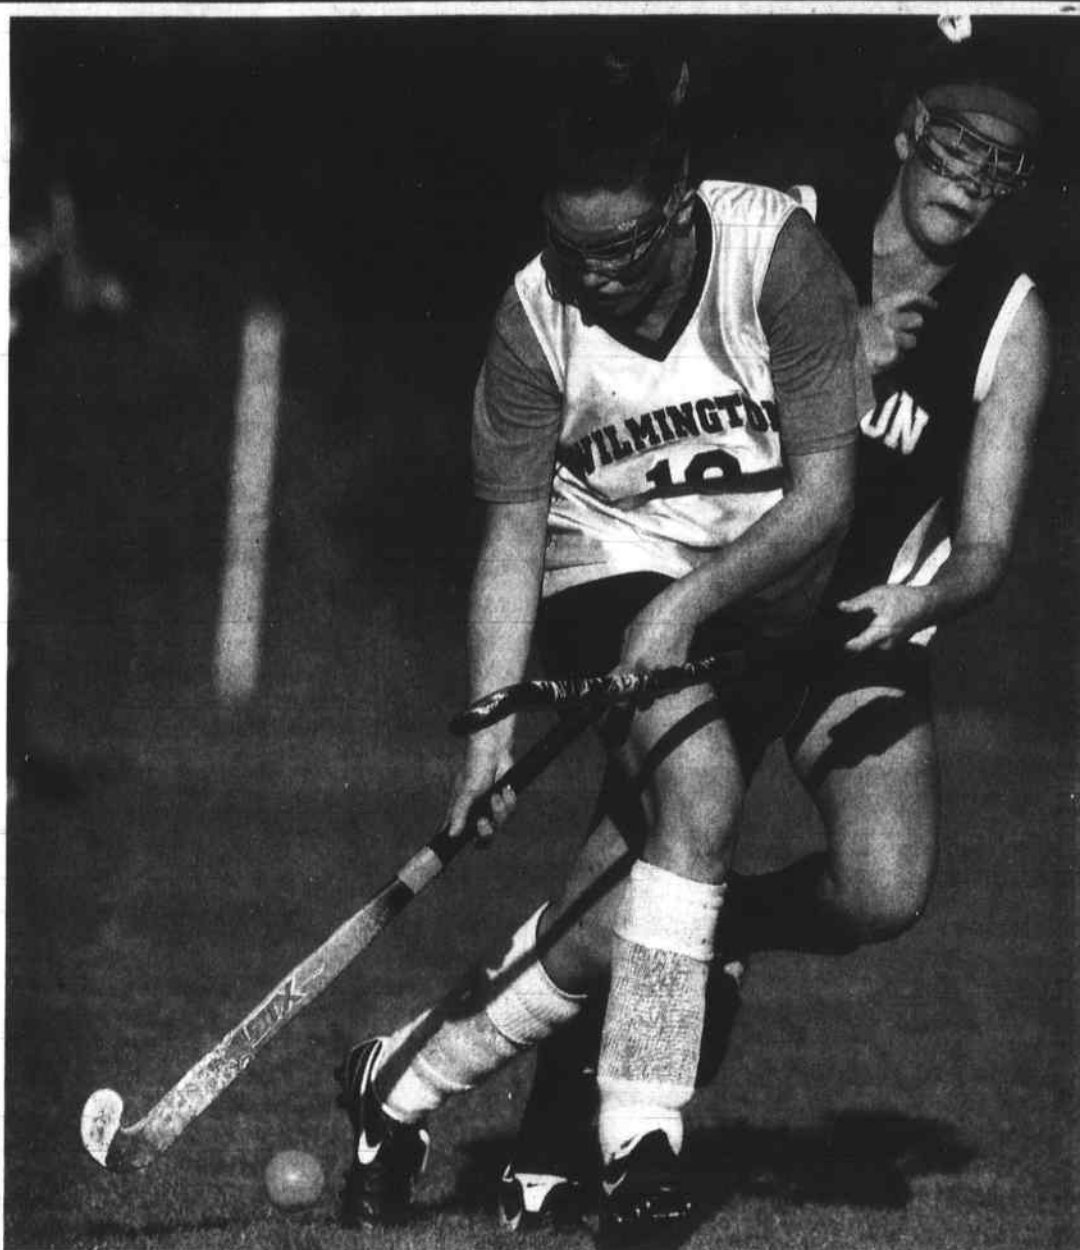

"The Cape Ann League scores have been all over the place," said MacKenzie. "Masco killed us 5-0 in the first game, and then they lost to Georgetown. I don't think the scores indicate where the league is. Any game, anything can happen - we're young and we're building, but anything can happen."

Cross Country

The Wildcat girls' cross country team defeated North Reading, 23-37, pushing the team's record to 3-4 overall.

A number of girls set personal records including Natalie Russo and Ali Lyman who finished second and third overall at 20:00 and 20:19, respectively.

Also finishing with personal bests included Sydnee Russo (21:18), Jessica Burke (21:38), Nikki Sirignano (22:00) and Courtney Collins, Kristi Adley, Michelle Filipi, Stephanie Woods and Michelle Barnes.

"The girls ran a very competitive race," said coach Tom Bradley. "One of the highlights was Ali Lyman moved up to the number two spot on the fastest Wilmington girls since I've been the coach here."

The boys team was defeated by North Reading, 21-37. Tom Valente was fourth overall coming across at 17:45. Zack Sears followed as he knocked more than a minute off his previous best time, at 18:13.

Cole Pepper also had a personal best at 18:24, with Cole Carter (20:34) and Jeff Kannally (20:46) also chopped down their previous best times.

WHS Golf

The Wilmington High golf team went 1-1 this past week, posting two of their best efforts of the season in the two matches, nearing their season high total in points against both last Wednesday's 144-138 win at Rockport, as well as Thursday's 159-145 loss to North Andover.

The scoring totals fell just short of the Wildcats season high of 146, which they achieved in their season opening match, and with the 1-1 week, the Wildcats record on the season now stands at 4-6, a cast improvement over last year's 1-10-1 campaign with two matches remaining on the season.

"The kids feel great about how much they have improved this year and no longer being at the bottom of the league," Wilmington coach Steve Lynch said. "We are getting better and I think our future is also very bright with so many young players."

One great example of how much the Wildcats have improved in just a year was the North Andover match. In last year's meeting with their Cape Ann League rivals, the Wildcats found themselves on the wrong end of a 178-99 final, and just a year later, they have made huge strides and were able to compete very well against a perennial CAL power.

"North Andover was probably our steadiest performance of the season, even though we lost," Lynch said. "Virtually our entire team scored 20 or more points, and most times that will win a match for us."

Junior Aubrey Ungvasky and sophomore Andrew Spurr led the way for the Wildcats with 26 points each, while senior captain Mike Chiracosta added 23 and Nick Bouteris had 24. The Wildcats also got outstanding efforts from the bottom half of their lineup, with number seven player Jon Keogh posting 22 points and number eight Steve Strem adding 24.

The Wildcats were so impressive that for the first time all year they did not use a 20 plus point scorer for their top six scores, with Pat Enright scoring an impressive 21 points.

"We were playing in very blustery conditions, with winds as high as 30 miles per hour," Lynch said. "They were the toughest conditions we have played in all year and the kids played very well. It was very encouraging."

The Rockport match was also very encouraging for the Wildcats, as they earned an impressive win over the team that they beat for their only victory of the season last year. Once again it was the bottom of the lineup that stepped up in a big way for the Wildcats, with Keogh putting up a remarkable 30 points to lead all scorers from the number six position. Bouteris and Ungvarsky added 26 points each, while Chiracosta added 23 and Spurr and Strem added 19 points each.

"It was a great performance up and down the lineup," Lynch said. "When your number six player can top your number one player, you are doing something well. We are getting a lot of help from the bottom of our rotation."

The Wildcats were set to square off against Hamilton-Wenham on Tuesday afternoon, but after taking the bus ride to Myopia Hunt Club in South Hamilton, the Wildcats had to turn around because the course had been booked for a private function.

No makeup date for the match has been announced yet. The Wildcats were also set to take on CAL powerhouse Triton on Wednesday afternoon in their only other remaining match of the season.

Volleyball

The Wilmington High volleyball team put together a 1-1 week with a 3-0 road victory over CAL upstart Winchester last Thursday afternoon and a 3-1 loss at Peabody on Monday. The 1-1 week left the Wildcats with a 3-9 overall record on the season, which gives them one more victory on the season than they had all of last year with eight matches still remaining on the season.

The win over Winchester was very satisfying for the Wildcats, who won the three games very comfortably by scores of 25-12, 25-18 and 25-16.

"I was happy to get the win and to play so well, but I was even happier to be able to get everyone into the game," Wilmington coach Mark Staffier said. "It was nice to have everyone contribute."

The Wildcats have been in many close matches this season, winning a few, while coming up on the short end of several hard fought matches, so for them to come up with a relatively easy victory was a nice change for Staffier and his squad.

"It was a nice feeling for the kids to win like that," Staffier said. "They have definitely fought hard in a lot of matches. Despite our record, I am very pleased with how we have played against teams at the top of the league."

Winchester certainly is not one of the top teams in the league, as they are in their first year of play in the CAL. But that hardly took anything away from the win for the Wildcats. In fact, it was pleasing for Staffier to see his team go out and take care of business the way they did.

"We have struggled in some matches this year against the weaker teams even though we have played very well against the top teams," Staffier said. "It was nice to win one we were supposed to win. Everyone played their role and did a good job."

Standing out for the Wildcats in the victory was junior Jill Fudge who saw some of her most extensive playing time of the season.

"Jill has been coming along real well," Staffier said. "She is new to us this year and she did a real good job vs. Winchester. She also played well for us against Peabody."

In the Peabody match, the Wildcats got off to a very strong start with a 25-18 win in the first game, but they then dropped three straight by scores of 25-21, 25-19 and 25-22.

"At the start of the year we struggled at the beginning of matches and we have worked on that," Staffier said. "But now it seems like the opposite is happening where we come out strong but cannot maintain it for the whole match."

Leading the way for the Wildcats in the loss were junior middle hitter Amy Fahey and junior defender Stef Kelly.

"They both played very well," Staffier said. "Amy had a great all around game and Stef had some great digs as a defender."

WHS Girls Soccer

The Wildcats' girls soccer team picked up two wins this past week, first defeating Hamilton-Wenham last Thursday, 3-1, and then over-taking Triton Regional, 1-0, on Monday.

In the win over HW, junior forward Brittney McLaughlin figured in all three goals, with two tallies and an assist. She set up Kaitlyn Souza, the game's first goal coming four minutes into the game. McLaughlin then scored her first goal coming 11 minutes left in the first half, and then nailing home the team's third goal just seven minutes into the second half with a helper going to Julie Braid.

Jackie Zaremba stopped five shots and Maggie Brown made three saves coming in for relief.

With the two wins, Wilmington is now 4-4-2 overall, and need just eight points in its last eight games to reach the state tournament once again. The Wildcats are home for its next two games, with Manchester-Essex (1-7-0) this Friday at the Shawsheen School and Pentucket (3-6-0) Tuesday night at Alumni Stadium.

Rte. 1 North Lynnfield, MA

Wildcats wake up just in time

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

LYNNFIELD - There are dominating wins, gutty wins and ugly wins. Saturday afternoon's non-league tilt with Lynnfield gets chalked up as an "ugly win."

Yet the ugly win has helped the Wilmington Wildcat Football team edge out Lynnfield, 14-7, and improve to 4-0 on the season.

"It was a real slow start for us and we shot ourselves in the foot with some mistakes," said head coach Mike Barry. "And we didn't capitalize on our chances. But once we cleaned up our mistakes and stayed with our basic style, I think the game turned to our favor and we really controlled the ball in the second half."

"We came out flat and made too many mistakes early on. We're not going to be able to do that against teams down the road, so the first thing we have to do is look at the coaching staff, see what we're doing wrong so this doesn't happen again."

Wilmington played a very lackluster first half. The Wildcats trailed 7-0 at the break. Wilmington had five offensive series in the first 22 minutes resulting in three punts, a three-and-out series and a fumble, the last scenario eventually set up the team's first score.

Besides the turnover, Wilmington was called for four penalties in the first half, none bigger than a roughing the kicker 15-yarder, after a 26-yard Field Goal attempt missed badly. Two plays later, Chris Grassi took the ball two yards out into the end zone helping the Pioneers take a 7-0 lead into halftime break.

"(The roughing the kicker penalty) was a big penalty," said Barry. "We also had some turnovers and some other major penalties. The penalties came on special teams, on offense, on defense and we're taking a look at it right now, figuring the best way to correct it."

On the ensuing kick-off after Lynnfield's second quarter score, Wilmington's Steve Stewart returned the ball to the Pioneer 48 for what would have been a 50-yard return, but the 'Cats were called for another 15-yard flag for blocking in the back. Wilmington managed two first downs in that drive, but Stewart's incomplete pass on first-and-ten from the Lynnfield 35, ended the dreadful first half.

"For some reason we were in a funk," said Barry. "On the positive side we didn't stay in that funk in the second half and we were able to play much better and come out with the win. On the negative side, we shouldn't have been in that position to begin with, forcing us to have to come back. Now we have to avoid that happening again."

The second half was a much different game and a much different Wildcat team. Just seconds before Wilmington ran its first offensive play of the second half, Barry had some words for running back Evan Butters, who watched from the sidelines through the first two quarters.

"We have a combination of kids who can run the ball," said Barry. "I thought Kevin (Moriarty) ran really well last week (against Lexington). He had some good runs in the first half as well. At that time, I just thought about putting a fresh kid in there just to get us a spark. Evan did nothing wrong (by not playing in the first half) - he has been banged up but he didn't do anything wrong. We actually didn't change many things - we made some minor adjustments."

"I just wanted to shake things up a bit and put a different kid in there. Actually I didn't even tell Evan until right before the first play because sometimes kids think too much. So I just wanted him to go out and play and have fun, and that's what he did."

After another special teams penalty moved the Wildcats back 15 yards on the opening kick-off of the third quarter, Butters took the ball 7 times during the team's 12-play, 75-yard drive. He rushed for 66 yards on those seven carries, including a 6-yard run going to his left. Steve Stewart's PAT kick was good and the game was tied at 7-7 with 4:30 left in the third quarter.

After forcing Lynnfield to a three-and-out series, Wilmington started its next drive on its own 27. This time, the series lasted 12 plays and lasted 5:30 into the fourth quarter. Butters and Kevin Moriarty mixed in several big runs, but the big play of the drive happened when Stewart connected with Mike Manganelli for a 19-yard completion, on a 3rd-and-19 play from the Lynnfield 30 yard line. Butters took the next two carries, the first for seven yards and the second from four yards out for his second touchdown of the game. Stewart's kick was good and the 'Cats took the 14-7 lead with 8:19 left in the game.

"Evan did have his best game of the season so far," said Barry. "He was a big factor in that second half. I thought the offensive line played really well in that second half. They played well in the first half but it didn't show because we didn't capitalize on our chances. I thought we got physical on both sides of the ball in the second half. Chris Cozeau played a great game on both sides of the ball."

After his second touchdown, Butters had 94 rushing yards on 13 carries. Stewart intercepted a pass on Lynnfield's first play of the next series, allowing Butters to add to his impressive stats with four more carries for 28 yards. Two plays later, Wilmington fumbled for its second time of the game. Lynnfield took over on its own 11-yard line. The Pioneers moved the ball to its 43, but a fourth-down pass play fell a yard short, giving Wilmington the ball back with 1:25 to go. Stewart then ran out the clock with a couple of runs before taking a knee for the final two snaps, giving Wilmington the 14-7 come from behind victory.

"If you look at the second half, I think they only ran six plays until there was four minutes left in the fourth quarter," said Barry. "I think that says a lot about our kids - because they controlled the ball and the clock, after we started out flat."

Wilmington finished the game with 331 total yards of offense, including 294 coming on the ground. Butters ended with 132 yards and two scores, all coming in the second half, while Moriarty had 98 yards, falling two yards short of having three straight 100-plus yard games. On the flip side, Lynnfield ended with just 42 rushing yards on 24 carries, while Grassi completed just 9-of-20 passes for 97 yards as the team's quarterback.

Now with the 4-0 record, Wilmington will face its second Cape Ann League small school opponent in Hamilton-Wenham, this Friday night at home beginning at 7:00 pm. With the Generals in the small school division, this game, like Lynnfield, is another non-league contest.

"Hamilton-Wenham is a real good football team," said Barry. "They beat Lynnfield 40-14. They are similar to us. They are good up front, they are physical and they feed off the offensive line with power football which sets the tone for them offensively and that carries over to the defensive side. They graduated a lot of kids last year just like we did. Hamilton-Wenham is going to be the best complete team we have faced so far this season, so we're going to have to be ready for them."

Shawsheen Tech Sports Round-Up

Golf team captures fourth straight league title

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Shawsheen Tech golf team lost a number of talented and experienced players off of last year's team, and headed into this season with as many question marks as a three time defending league champion could possibly have.

But despite the loss of most of the players who led them to the previous three titles, this Rams team has hardly missed a beat, as they secured their fourth straight Commonwealth Athletic Conference title on Tuesday afternoon with a 5 1/2 - 3 1/2 victory over Minuteman in a road match at Pine Meadow Country Club in Lexington.

The Rams hold an overall record of 5-6 with the victory as they have struggled at times to maintain their great record against a very challenging non-league schedule, but they finished at 3-1 in the CAC, continuing their dominance over the rest of the league.

"Minuteman has a great overall record, which we do not have, but we were able to do well enough in the league to win," Shawsheen coach Tom Struthers said. "There are only three teams in the league this year, and hopefully we will add more in the future, but right now it was great to see our kids come through the way they did."

Sophomore Brett Frederickson led the way for the Rams from his number one position, shooting a 39 and winning his match 5-4 over the talented Joe Daragon of Minuteman. Frederickson's playing partner, freshman Chris Clayton at number four, shot a 44 to win his match 5 1/2 - 3 1/2. The pair also combined to take the best ball competition among their foursome, earning all three possible points in their matchup.

"The two of them obviously had a big role in our winning today's match," Struthers said. "Frederickson has done a real nice job for us stepping into the number one position, and it is nice to see a freshman like Clayton playing so well."

While the Rams are made up primarily of young players who have led them to the league title, they have also gotten some big contributions from senior captain Ryan Strazzere, who won his match 6 1/2 - 2 1/2 while shooting a 40.

"That was nice to see out of our captain," Struthers said. "He has been a very good captain for us. He is a nice kid, and it is always good to see him do well."

Another young star for the Rams, freshman Stephen Murphy, playing out of the number three slot, won his match 5-4 by shooting a 39 over the nine hole course. His playing partner, number six player Chris DeaCetis did not have his best day on the course, but still managed to help gain half a point by tying in the best ball competition.

Struthers and his team are obviously very happy with the league title, but Struthers is also quite please with his young team's efforts throughout the season even in losses to stiff competition. It was a non-league schedule that Struthers experienced team navigated though on their way to an undefeated season last year, and got even more difficult this season with fewer league matches.

"We played Arlington Catholic and Austin Prep and went 1-1 against each of them and we are playing Billerica one more time despite already losing to them," Struthers said. "We could go out and play an easy non-league schedule, but my theory is to make it as challenging as possible because that is the only way you will get better and we have done that."

Girls Soccer

The Shawsheen girls soccer team continued to roll along this past week with two more wins to their credit to push their record on the 9-1-1 on the season and 8-0-1 in the CAC. The Lady Rams downed CAC rival Minuteman on Friday by a score of 6-0 and kept the scoreless streak alive with a 3-0 win on Monday over non-league rival Mount Alvernia.

In Monday's home win over Mount Alvernia, goalie Stef Warnick of Wilmington came back from appeared to be a serious injury last week, and played a stellar game in net for the Lady Rams, making 10 saves to record the team's sixth shutout of the season.

As well as Warnick played in net, Shawsheen coach Doug Michaud was even more impressed with the play of the defense in front of her. Janel Madore of Tewksbury, along with Danielle Hayes, Caitlin Gallagher and Kim Barris all played exceptionally well, as they have all season long.

"Stef played a great game, but she was not really tested because of the defense," Michaud said. "Our defense is very solid. It seems like no one can get by them. Our two outside defenders, Janel and Danielle have a no quit attitude. If someone beats them, they just keep going after them until they stop them."

In order to win of course, Shawsheen needed some offense as well and they got it from the two players who have provided the bulk of the offense all season long, with junior Jenn Carroll of Wilmington potting goals and junior Jenna

Zechner adding one of her own. Barris and Marissa Irwin added assists for the Lady Rams.

"Jenna really set the tone about ten minutes into the game when she had a blast right in front of the net and that kind of changed the goalie's approach the rest of the game," Michaud said. "Jenn Carroll then followed up with some shots where the goalie was sort of tentative and she was able to score."

On Friday afternoon, Shawsheen took on Minuteman and the 6-0 final was not even indicative of the dominance the Lady Rams showed from start to finish. Shawsheen was led in this one by several newcomers to the team, with freshman Sabrina Gomes scoring the first two goals of the game to spark the team, while fellow freshmen Amanda Vance and Julie Russell added a goal each.

Vance has been a star since coming up to the varsity and Russell is beginning to take steps in that direction as well.

"Amanda just continues to go out there and play well for us in every game," Michaud said. "And Julie is coming along. She might not be the fastest player on the team, but she really sees the field well and she uses that to her advantage."

Shawsheen also got goals

from Madore and sophomore Alyssa Martucci of Tewksbury.

With so many players on the team capable of putting the ball in the net, Michaud knows he can substitute freely during the course of a game and not lose a lot with his bench players.

"If I go to the bench it is just to replace a tired player," Michaud said. "I am not losing a lot of skill because the bench players are just as strong as the starters."

Boys Soccer

The Shawsheen boys soccer team is well on their way to a great season in their own right, bouncing back from a tough 1-0 loss to Northeast Regional last Thursday with a huge 3-0 win at Lynn Tech on Monday afternoon.

The 1-1 week leaves the Rams with a 5-1-2 overall record, with a 4-1-2 mark in the CAC Large.

The Lynn Tech game was a big lift for the Rams if they want to compete for the CAC Large crown with Chelsea. While the Northeast loss certainly hurt, the Lynn Tech win put the Rams right back into contention.

"It was certainly a big win for us in the sense that it was an Upper Division team that is difficult to beat and they lost to Chelsea by just 3-2 so we know they are a good team," Shawsheen coach Dick Barris said. "But it is just one win. I told our team after the game that we are going into a stretch of six to eight games where we really need to win all or most of them to give us some separation."

"If we don't create that separation we will not finish first or second in the league and that could cost us a spot in the Voke tournament and we would miss out on a lot of other things as well."

The Rams did not get much separation in this game until very late in the first half. In the 36th minute, however, they finally broke through with Luke Riberio scoring the first goal of the game off of a great set up from Andrew Puccio.

"Puccio came down the right side and did a great job getting the ball in front of Riberio and he put it in," Barris said. "When the play started out, it really had none of the makings of a goal, but all of a sudden it was because of a couple of great plays."

The goal had more of an effect than just giving the Rams a 1-0 lead, it also shifted momentum greatly in their directions.

"I think it really took the wind out of Lynn Tech's sails," Barris said. "Mike LaMonica had made a couple of great saves on breakaways and kept us in the game and then we came up with the first goal of the game."

LaMonica was outstanding for the Rams, making 13 saves to earn his third shutout of the season.

Senior fullback Calvin McMillan of Tewksbury scored his first goal of the season 24 minutes into the second half, scoring on a great set up by Eric McLaughlin, and freshman Mike DiGiorgio of Tewksbury scored the Rams final goal off of a corner kick by Tewksbury's Jeff Jaimes.

DiGiorgio and fellow Tewksbury resident Dan Serano also played a huge role in the win defensively for the Rams. After a first half where Lynn Tech had some great opportunities to score only to be turned away by LaMonica, Barris made an adjustment in the second half and put his two defensive specialists on the Tigers best player and they shut him down completely. It was the second time this season that Barris has used the two in that role and once again they came through with flying colors.

"He was frustrated to begin with after not scoring on the breakaways and when we did this we took him even more out of his game and got him even more frustrated," Barris said. "I don't think we will use this defense all the time, but when we do, these two do a great job with it and it can be very frustrating to an opponent."

Against Northeast, the Rams took the loss when the Golden Knights scored the only goal of the game off of a rebound of a penalty kick. LaMonica played very well once again, making 12 saves, and the Rams had 24 shots of their own in the game, including 11 on net.

Cross Country

The season could not be going much better for both the boys and girls cross country teams at Shawsheen, with both teams keeping their perfect records intact last Wednesday afternoon in a tri-meet against Greater Lawrence and Chelsea held at Greater Lawrence.

The boys team won a squeaker over Greater Lawrence by a score of 26-30, while winning in a rout over Chelsea by a score of 19-44 to improve to 6-0. The girls, meanwhile won both of their matchups by a scores of 15-50 to improve to 7-0 on the season.

The boys were led once again by the depth of their team, as Greater Lawrence's Erick Polanco took first place in a time of 17:24 over the 2.95 mile course, and Chelsea's Chris Lugo took third in a time of 17:55.

Shawsheen, however, got a second place finish from junior tri-captain Bjorn Hanson, who came in just behind Polanco, trailing him by only two seconds at 17:26. Shawsheen then placed three more runners in the next five places to open up the scoring lead they needed to win the meet. Sophomore Anthony Finn ran fourth overall and second for the Rams in 18:42, followed by Hanson's two co-captains, senior Kevin Mahoney in fifth in 18:51, and senior Travis Craigie of Tewksbury, who finished seventh overall in 19:06.

Shawsheen coach Tim Broadrick was not at all surprised to see the Greater Lawrence portion of the meet be so close, and he was very pleased to see his team beat such a talented squad.

"They're a great program," said Broadrick. "They have won the boys' CAC championship two years in a row, and they have been our only regular season loss each of those years."

Once again, the Rams got strong efforts from three young runners from Tewksbury, with freshman Keenan Goodwin finishing 12th overall and fifth for the Rams in a time of 20:15, while sophomore Ben Bourne and freshman Richard Silk took the Rams sixth and seventh spots.

The Rams were wrapping up their regular season on Wednesday afternoon as the Town Crier went to press against Greater Lowell and Mystic Valley and Broadrick was warning his team against any overconfidence as they try to wrap up an undefeated season.

"We have Greater Lowell and Mystic Valley next week," he said. "Greater Lowell is always strong, and Mystic Valley is the up-and-coming team in the league."

Football

The Shawsheen football team suffered a tough loss on Saturday night, dropping a 34-0 decision to Manchester-Essex at Endicott College. The loss dropped the Rams record on the season to 2-3 overall, while Manchester improved to 4-0, with all of their wins coming in the same blowout fashion as Saturday's game.

The Rams will look to bounce back when they host CAC Small rival Mystic Valley on Saturday at Cassidy Field in Billerica for a 1:30 kickoff. Mystic Valley will bring a 1-3 record into the game with the team's only common opponent being Manchester, where Mystic Valley suffered a similar fate as the Rams in dropping a 35-8 decision in the second week of the season.

Mystic Valley enters the game on the heels of a 37-20 loss to Whittier and will be led by quarterback Nick Mortorano who has rushed for two touchdowns this season, while also passing for a score.

Adam 'Powers' his way to a ten-tackle game for WPI

Tewksbury's Adam Power was a terror for the WPI Engineers in a nail-biting 19-16 homecoming win over Union on Saturday. The sophomore defensive back had 10 tackles, including one for a loss, in the victory. Wilmington's Ernie Mello also competed for the Engineers, returning one punt for 22 yards.

Chris Byrne put in a solid effort defensively as he helped lead the Northeastern Huskies to a 35-17 win over Towson on Saturday. The junior lineman from Tewksbury had three tackles, two of them solo, in the win. Byrne has 10 tackles so far this season.

Wilmington's Kyle Moon, a freshman quarterback for Mass Maritime, threw his first career touchdown pass in a 30-6 loss to the Coast Guard Academy on Saturday. The signal caller was a perfect 5-5 and threw for 65 yards, including the touchdown pass of 18 yards.

Wilmington's Kyle Moon

Two other locals performed in that game for Mass Maritime. Kevin McCarthy, a junior defensive back from Wilmington, had 3.5 tackles while sophomore linebacker Stephen Alves of Tewksbury added a solo tackle.

Franklin Pierce soccer standout Vinny Papageorgiou was named Northeast-10 men's soccer Freshman of the Week for the second week in a row. He also won the league's Goalkeeper of the Week award. The Wilmington native averaged 2.5 saves per match without conceding a goal and played all 180 minutes of two Franklin Pierce wins.

Stephen Potcner also continues to represent Wilmington well on the college soccer field. He scored his third goal in as many games in a 3-1 River Hawks win over Bentley on Saturday. The sophomore forward has helped lead his team to a 4-2-3 record.

Tewksbury's Karla Rotondi was the offensive star for the Worcester State field hockey team in a 2-1 victory over Bridgewater State on Saturday. The sophomore scored her first goal of the year with 31 seconds left in the first stanza, and then assisted on the game-winner with four minutes left in the game.

Vicky Wong of Tewksbury had 13 digs for UMass Lowell in a 3-1 loss to Adelphi on Saturday. The sophomore has played in 53 out of a possible 55 games for the River Hawks.

Tewksbury's Nicole Dumond had 13 assists for the Southern New Hampshire University volleyball team in a 3-0 loss to Le Moyne on Saturday. Dumond has 136 assists on the season.

Tewksbury's Nicky Dumond

Two Wilmington residents have been wrapping up their

college soccer careers at Westfield State. Anthony Azevedo and Bryan Little are both senior defenders for the Owls. Azevedo has started all nine games while Little has seen action in all nine, starting two.

Wilmington's Rebecca Connolly finished in eighth place overall at the "5th Annual Marlboro Main Street Mile" held on Sunday. She was the second woman to cross the line and finished with a time of 5:09.

Four Wilmington natives competed in Sunday's "Irish-American Club 5 Miler" held in Woburn. Cheryl Mehigan finished in 60th place with a time of 40:05. Lisa Hodge was right behind her in 62nd place, crossing the line at 41:11. Daniel Zuccaro's time of 49:01 placed him 144th. Mike Hodge finished in 160th place with a time of 1:00:15.

Eight local runners traveled to Boston on Saturday to compete in the 10th Anniversary of the Samaritans 5k Road Race. The only Wilmington resident to take part was Janine Cloutier, who finished in 40th place with a time of 21:51.

Tewksbury's Brian Flynn finished in 74th place with a time of 23:50. Ronald Anderson finished right behind him in 75th place and a time of 23:52. Michael Flynn placed 107th and crossed the line at 25:08. Micaela Flynn finished in 212th place with a time of 28:40. Brian Anderson's time of 32:44 placed him 310th. Kathleen Anderson finished in 373rd place with a time of 37:44, while Mary Jane Gallucci crossed the line at 48:02, placing 396th.

Red Sox and NFL make for terrific fall season

By LOUIE CIMAGALIA
Sports Correspondent

How 'bout them Red Sox?

In a wildly entertaining ALDS, the Sox topped the Angels in four games, propelling them into a seven-game clash with the fearsome, the storied, the mighty Tampa Bay Rays. Who would have thought that the Rays would have made it to the ALCS, one year after losing nearly one hundred games? What a story. These playoffs have been nothing short of fantastic. Every series has been replete with story lines and intriguing match-ups.

Game Four of the Sox-Halos series was simply a phenomenal game to watch. It moved at a brisk pace and the scoring was give and take. And believe me, no one is happier than I am that the Sox won. However, I do call into question the controversial call of Jason Varitek's rundown with Angels' pinch runner, Reggie Willits. Tek ran down Willits, tagged him, and then lost control of the ball upon his contact with the ground. Let me preface that I do believe Willits was out and the correct call was made. However, the "Mike and Mike Show" on ESPN brought up a very legitimate point. When a catcher is run over at the plate and loses the ball, the runner is safe, even though technically the runner has been touched by the ball when the catcher has control of the ball. Now of course, that happens much quicker and there is no official amount of time a ball needs to be controlled for a runner to be tagged out.

Dave Campbell, who called the game for ESPN Radio, said that if that call had been made against the Red Sox or Yankees, it would be "Watergate Three." Now, I have no idea what "Watergate Two" was, but I suppose that is irrelevant. Campbell says that the replay for home runs in baseball was installed because of two plays that have happened in New York. He says that if the Sox got the short end of this call that the Boston management would clamor for a rule change. The fact is there is no rule that specifically covers this issue, and it is basically a judgment call. Campbell was upset that there was no conference among the umpires. The more the play is looked at though, the more it just seems that Willits was out. There was too much time between the tag and the loss of the ball.

Campbell argues that if in a collision the ball is dropped, the runner is safe. I counter that by saying, the Red Sox won so the rule, or lack thereof, is fine by me.

The NFL has been pretty strange so far this year. In a nutshell, here it is. The Patriots and Colts are average teams. Eli Manning is better than Peyton. Reggie Bush had almost three hundred all-purpose yards, two punt return touchdowns, and his team lost. The NFC East is perhaps one of the greatest divisions of all-time. The Buffalo Bills are ahead of the Patriots in the standings. The Rams and Lions are fighting for the title of being "The Worst Team In Any Sport Of All Time." And guys named Kerry Collins, Gus Frerotte, Brian Griese and Kyle Orton are all starting quarterbacks in the National Football League.

Speaking of the NFL, they recently announced that Bruce Springsteen will be performing at the Super Bowl halftime show. I think within seconds of the release of this information, I received an email from my mother, perhaps the biggest hater of Bruce on the face of the Earth. Fact is, the Boss can still rock, even at 93 years old.

In the ring, the sport of Boxing may have just received the big break it has been looking for. First of all, Oscar De La Hoya will be fighting number one pound-for-pound fighter in the world, Manny Pacquiao. Any megafight is good for the sport, but coupled with the knockout of Kimbo Slice last weekend, this could be just the break boxing fans have been seeking. Slice was the biggest name in Mixed Martial Arts. MMA has been riding up boxing's shorts for a few years now.

And with this Youtube sensation Slice, MMA had a face for its movement. Slice was knocked out by a no-name in fourteen seconds. The man who dispatched of Kimbo, Seth Petruzelli, said he was told not to take down the big fella. Oops.

What this does show is that boxing needs to find a way to get its big fights out of the hands of Pay-Per View. Especially with the slumping economy, people simply aren't going to want to plunk down 50 dollars to watch a fight, no matter how good it may be. Someone needs to step up to the plate and keep this great sport thriving.

Speaking of free television, the greatest show ever created is finally returning to the airwaves. "24" is back, baby! Kiefer Sutherland is making his comeback to the small screen after his latest DUI. Other than "The Office", this is the only show worth watching on TV. I think someone should find a way to combine Steve Carell and Jack Bauer. Mr. Scorsese, I believe I just found your next Oscar.

In perhaps the strongest form of karma ever, OJ Simpson will most likely be spending the rest of his life in jail. After trying to reclaim "stolen" memorabilia, Simpson was sentenced to three months in a detention center before being sent to prison. Couldn't happen to a nicer guy.

Also, I offer an apology to all Chicago Cubs fans. Just when you think you're out, they drag you back in. Keep fighting the good fight up there on the north side.

If you're looking for some good reading, go the Bill Simmons page on ESPN.com. He wrote a lengthy piece on the "Manipulation of Manny", and his turbulent years in Boston. Fascinating stuff. It really is great having Rick Reilly and Bill Simmons right next to each other on that site.

Finally, I think I speak for all Sox fans, nay, sports fans, when I say that I am praying for a

Sox-Dodgers World Series. That's right up there with my "24/Office" spinoff show. Keep your fingers crossed.

Shawsheen Tech Sports Round-Up

Golf team captures fourth straight league title

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Shawsheen Tech golf team lost a number of talented and experienced players off of last year's team, and headed into this season with as many question marks as a three time defending league champion could possibly have.

But despite the loss of most of the players who led them to the previous three titles, this Rams team has hardly missed a beat, as they secured their fourth straight Commonwealth Athletic Conference title on Tuesday afternoon with a 5 1/2 - 3 1/2 victory over Minuteman in a road match at Pine Meadow Country Club in Lexington.

The Rams hold an overall record of 5-6 with the victory as they have struggled at times to maintain their great record against a very challenging non-league schedule, but they finished at 3-1 in the CAC, continuing their dominance over the rest of the league.

"Minuteman has a great overall record, which we do not have, but we were able to do well enough in the league to win," Shawsheen coach Tom Struthers said. "There are only three teams in the league this year, and hopefully we will add more in the future, but right now it was great to see our kids come through the way they did."

Sophomore Brett Frederickson led the way for the Rams from his number one position, shooting a 39 and winning his match 5-4 over the talented Joe Daragon of Minuteman. Frederickson's playing partner, freshman Chris Clayton at number four, shot a 44 to win his match 5 1/2 - 3 1/2. The par also combined to take the best ball competition among their foursome, earning all three possible points in their matchup.

"The two of them obviously had a big role in our winning today's match," Struthers said. "Frederickson has done a real nice job for us stepping into the number one position, and it is nice to see a freshman like Clayton playing so well."

While the Rams are made up primarily of young players who have led them to the league title, they have also gotten some big contributions from senior captain Ryan Strazzere, who won his match 6 1/2 - 2 1/2 while shooting a 40.

"That was nice to see out of our captain," Struthers said. "He has been a very good captain for us. He is a nice kid, and it is always good to see him do well."

Another young star for the Rams, freshman Stephen Murphy, playing out of the number three slot, won his match 5-4 by shooting a 39 over the nine hole course. His playing partner, number six player Chris DeaCetis did not have his best day on the course, but still managed to help gain half a point by tying in the best ball competition.

Struthers and his team are obviously very happy with the league title, but Struthers is also quite please with his young team's efforts throughout the season even in losses to stiff competition. It was a non-league schedule that Struthers experienced team navigated though on their way to an undefeated season last year, and got even more difficult this season with fewer league matches.

"We played Arlington Catholic and Austin Prep and went 1-1 against each of them and we are playing Billerica one more time despite already losing to them," Struthers said. "We could go out and play an easy non-league schedule, but my theory is to make it as challenging as possible because that is the only way you will get better and we have done that."

Girls Soccer

The Shawsheen girls soccer team continued to roll along this past week with two more wins to their credit to push their record on the 9-1-1 on the season and 8-0-1 in the CAC. The Lady Rams downed CAC rival Minuteman on Friday by a score of 6-0 and kept the scoreless streak alive with a 3-0 win on Monday over non-league rival Mount Alvernia.

In Monday's home win over Mount Alvernia, goalie Stef Warnick of Wilmington came back from appeared to be a serious injury last week, and played a stellar game in net for the Lady Rams, making 10 saves to record the team's sixth shutout of the season.

As well as Warnick played in net, Shawsheen coach Doug Michaud was even more impressed with the play of the defense in front of her. Janel Madore of Tewksbury, along with Danielle Hayes, Caitlin Gallagher and Kim Barris all played exceptionally well, as they have all season long.

"Stef played a great game, but she was not really tested because of the defense," Michaud said. "Our defense is very solid. It seems like no one can get by them. Our two outside defenders, Janel and Danielle have a no quit attitude. If someone beats them, they just keep going after them until they stop them."

In order to win of course, Shawsheen needed some offense as well and they got it from the two players who have provided the bulk of the offense all season long, with junior Jenn Carroll of Wilmington potting goals and junior Jenna

Zechner adding one of her own. Barris and Marissa Irwin added assists for the Lady Rams.

"Jenna really set the tone about ten minutes into the game when she had a blast right in front of the net and that kind of changed the goalie's approach the rest of the game," Michaud said. "Jenn Carroll then followed up with some shots where the goalie was sort of tentative and she was able to score."

On Friday afternoon, Shawsheen took on Minuteman and the 6-0 final was not even indicative of the dominance the Lady Rams showed from start to finish. Shawsheen was led in this one by several newcomers to the team, with freshman Sabrina Gomes scoring the first two goals of the game to spark the team, while fellow freshmen Amanda Vance and Julie Russell added a goal each.

Vance has been a star since coming up to the varsity and Russell is beginning to take steps in that direction as well.

"Amanda just continues to go out there and play well for us in every game," Michaud said. "And Julie is coming along. She might not be the fastest player on the team, but she really sees the field well and she uses that to her advantage."

Shawsheen also got goals

from Madore and sophomore Alyssa Martucci of Tewksbury.

With so many players on the team capable of putting the ball in the net, Michaud knows he can substitute freely during the course of a game and not lose a lot with his bench players.

"If I go to the bench it is just to replace a tired player," Michaud said. "I am not losing a lot of skill because the bench players are just as strong as the starters."

Boys Soccer

The Shawsheen boys soccer team is well on their way to a great season in their own right, bouncing back from a tough 1-0 loss to Northeast Regional last Thursday with a huge 3-0 win at Lynn Tech on Monday afternoon.

The 1-1 week leaves the Rams with a 5-1-2 overall record, with a 4-1-2 mark in the CAC Large.

The Lynn Tech game was a big lift for the Rams if they want to compete for the CAC Large crown with Chelsea. While the Northeast loss certainly hurt, the Lynn Tech win put the Rams right back into contention.

"It was certainly a big win for us in the sense that it was an Upper Division team that is difficult to beat and they lost to Chelsea by just 3-2 so we know they are a good team," Shawsheen coach Dick Barris said. "But it is just one win. I told our team after the game that we are going into a stretch of six to eight games where we really need to win all or most of them to give us some separation."

"If we don't create that separation we will not finish first or second in the league and that could cost us a spot in the Voke tournament and we would miss out on a lot of other things as well."

The Rams did not get much separation in this game until very late in the first half. In the 36th minute, however, they finally broke through with Luke Riberio scoring the first goal of the game off of a great set up from Andrew Puccio.

"Puccio came down the right side and did a great job getting the ball in front of Riberio and he put it in," Barris said. "When the play started out, it really had none of the makings of a goal, but all of a sudden it was because of a couple of great plays."

The goal had more of an effect than just giving the Rams a 1-0 lead, it also shifted momentum greatly in their directions.

"I think it really took the wind out of Lynn Tech's sails," Barris said. "Mike LaMonica had made a couple of great saves on breakaways and kept us in the game and then we came up with the first goal of the game."

LaMonica was outstanding for the Rams, making 13 saves to earn his third shutout of the season.

Senior fullback Calvin McMillan of Tewksbury scored his first goal of the season 24 minutes into the second half, scoring on a great set up by Eric McLaughlin, and freshman Mike DiGiorgio of Tewksbury scored the Rams final goal off of a corner kick by Tewksbury's Jeff Jaimes.

DiGiorgio and fellow Tewksbury resident Dan Serano also played a huge role in the win defensively for the Rams. After a first half where Lynn Tech had some great opportunities to score only to be turned away by LaMonica, Barris made an adjustment in the second half and put his two defensive specialists on the Tigers best player and they shut him down completely.

It was the second time this season that Barris has used the two in that role and once again they came thought with flying colors. "He was frustrated to begin with after not scoring on the breakaways and when we did this we took him even more out of his game and got him even more frustrated," Barris said. "I don't think we will use this defense all the time, but when we do, these two do a great job with it and it can be very frustrating to an opponent."

Against Northeast, the Rams took the loss when the Golden Knights scored the only goal of the game off of a rebound of a penalty kick. LaMonica played very well once again, making 12 saves, and the Rams had 24 shots of their own in the game, including 11 on net.

Cross Country

The season could not be going much better for both the boys and girls cross country teams at Shawsheen, with both teams keeping their perfect records intact last Wednesday afternoon in a tri-meet against Greater Lawrence and Chelsea held at Greater Lawrence.

The boys team won a squeaker over Greater Lawrence by a score of 26-30, while winning in a rout over Chelsea by a score of 19-44 to improve to 6-0. The girls, meanwhile won both of their matchups by a scores of 15-50 to improve to 7-0 on the season.

The boys were led once again by the depth of their team, as Greater Lawrence's Erick Polanco took first place in a time of 17:24 over the 2.95 mile course, and Chelsea's Chris Lugo took third in a time of 17:55.

Shawsheen, however, got a second place finish from junior tri-captain Bjorn Hanson, who came in just behind Polanco, trailing him by only two seconds at 17:26. Shawsheen then placed three more runners in the next five places to open up the scoring lead they needed to win the meet. Sophomore Anthony Finn ran fourth overall and second for the Rams in 18:42, followed by Hanson's two co-captains, senior Kevin Mahoney in fifth in 18:51, and senior Travis Craigie of Tewksbury, who finished seventh overall in 19:06.

Shawsheen coach Tim Broadrick was not at all surprised to see the Greater Lawrence portion of the meet be so close, and he was very pleased to see his team beat such a talented squad.

"They're a great program," said Broadrick. "They have won the boys' CAC championship two years in a row, and they have been our only regular season loss each of those years."

Once again, the Rams got strong efforts from three young runners from Tewksbury, with freshman Keenan Goodwin finishing 12th overall and fifth for the Rams in a time of 20:15, while sophomore Ben Bourne and freshman Richard Silk took the Rams sixth and seventh spots.

The Rams were wrapping up their regular season on Wednesday afternoon as the Town Crier went to press against Greater Lowell and Mystic Valley and Broadrick was warning his team against any overconfidence as they try to wrap up an undefeated season.

"We have Greater Lowell and Mystic Valley next week," he said. "Greater Lowell is always strong, and Mystic Valley is the up-and-coming team in the league."

Football

The Shawsheen football team suffered a tough loss on Saturday night, dropping a 34-0 decision to Manchester-Essex at Endicott College. The loss dropped the Rams record on the season to 2-3 overall, while Manchester improved to 4-0, with all of their wins coming in the same blowout fashion as Saturday's game.

The Rams will look to bounce back when they host CAC Small rival Mystic Valley on Saturday at Cassidy Field in Billerica for a 1:30 kickoff. Mystic Valley will bring a 1-3 record into the game with the team's only common opponent being Manchester, where Mystic Valley suffered a similar fate as the Rams in dropping a 35-8 decision in the second week of the season.

Mystic Valley enters the game on the heels of a 37-20 loss to Whittier and will be led by quarterback Nick Mortorano who has rushed for two touchdowns this season, while also passing for a score.

Adam 'Powers' his way to a ten-tackle game for WPI

Tewksbury's Adam Power was a terror for the WPI Engineers in a nail-biting 19-16 homecoming win over Union on Saturday. The sophomore defensive back had 10 tackles, including one for a loss, in the victory. Wilmington's Ernie Mello also competed for the Engineers, returning one punt for 22 yards.

Chris Byrne put in a solid effort defensively as he helped lead the Northeastern Huskies to a 35-17 win over Towson on Saturday. The junior lineman from Tewksbury had three tackles, two of them solo, in the win. Byrne has 10 tackles so far this season.

Wilmington's Kyle Moon, a freshman quarterback for Mass Maritime, threw his first career touchdown pass in a 30-6 loss to the Coast Guard Academy on Saturday. The signal caller was a perfect 5-5 and threw for 65 yards, including the touchdown pass of 18 yards.

Wilmington's Kyle Moon

Two other locals performed in that game for Mass Maritime. Kevin McCarthy, a junior defensive back from Wilmington, had 3.5 tackles while sophomore linebacker Stephen Alves of Tewksbury added a solo tackle.

Franklin Pierce soccer standout Vinny Papageorgiou was named Northeast-10 men's soccer Freshman of the Week for the second week in a row. He also won the league's Goalkeeper of the Week award. The Wilmington native averaged 2.5 saves per match without conceding a goal and played all 180 minutes of two Franklin Pierce wins.

Stephen Potcner also continues to represent Wilmington well on the college soccer field. He scored his third goal in as many games in a 3-1 River Hawks win over Bentley on Saturday. The sophomore forward has helped lead his team to a 4-2-3 record.

Tewksbury's Karla Rotondi was the offensive star for the Worcester State field hockey team in a 2-1 victory over Bridgewater State on Saturday. The sophomore scored her first goal of the year with 31 seconds left in the first stanza, and then assisted on the game-winner with four minutes left in the game.

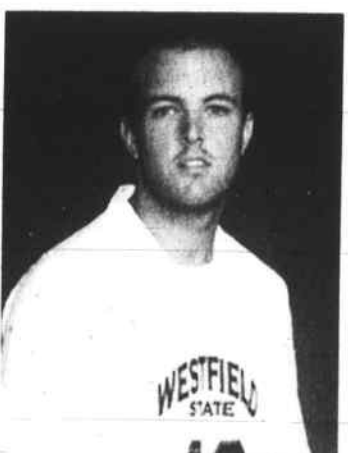

Vicky Wong of Tewksbury had 13 digs for UMass Lowell in a 3-1 loss to Adelphi on Saturday. The sophomore has played in 53 out of a possible 55 games for the River Hawks.

Tewksbury's Nicole Dumond had 13 assists for the Southern New Hampshire University volleyball team in a 3-0 loss to Le Moyne on Saturday. Dumond has 136 assists on the season.

Tewksbury's Nicky Dumond

Two Wilmington residents have been wrapping up their

college soccer careers at Westfield State. Anthony Azevedo and Bryan Little are both senior defenders for the Owls. Azevedo has started all nine games while Little has seen action in all nine, starting two.

Wilmington's Rebecca Connolly finished in eighth place overall at the "5th Annual Marlboro Main Street Mile" held on Sunday. She was the second woman to cross the line and finished with a time of 5:09.

Four Wilmington natives competed in Sunday's "Irish-American Club 5 Miler" held in Woburn. Cheryl Mehigan finished in 60th place with a time of 40:05. Lisa Hodge was right behind her in 62nd place, crossing the line at 41:11. Daniel Zuccaro's time of 49:01 placed him 144th. Mike Hodge finished in 160th place with a time of 1:00:15.

Eight local runners traveled to Boston on Saturday to compete in the 10th Anniversary of the Samaritans 5k Road Race. The only Wilmington resident to take part was Janine Cloutier, who finished in 40th place with a time 21:51. Tewksbury's Brian Flynn finished in 74th place with a time of 23:50. Ronald Anderson finished right behind him in 75th place and a time of 23:52. Michael Flynn placed 107th and crossed the line at 25:08. Micaela Flynn finished in 212th place with a time of 28:40. Brian Anderson's time of 32:44 placed him 310th. Kathleen Anderson finished in 373rd place with a time of 37:44, while Mary Jane Gallucci crossed the line at 48:02, placing 396th.

Red Sox and NFL make for terrific fall season

By LOUIE CIMAGALIA
Sports Correspondent

How 'bout them Red Sox?

In a wildly entertaining ALDS, the Sox topped the Angels in four games, propelling them into a seven-game clash with the fearsome, the storied, the mighty Tampa Bay Rays. Who would have thought that the Rays would have made it to the ALCS, one year after losing nearly one hundred games? What a story. These playoffs have been nothing short of fantastic. Every series has been replete with story lines and intriguing match-ups.

Game Four of the Sox-Halos series was simply a phenomenal game to watch. It moved at a brisk pace and the scoring was give and take. And believe me, no one is happier than I am that the Sox won. However, I do call into question the controversial call of Jason Varitek's rundown with Angels' pinch runner, Reggie Willits. Tek ran down Willits, tagged him, and then lost control of the ball upon his contact with the ground. Let me preface that I do believe Willits was out and the correct call was made. However, the "Mike and Mike Show" on ESPN brought up a very legitimate point. When a catcher is run over at the plate and loses the ball, the runner is safe, even though technically the runner has been touched by the ball when the catcher has control of the ball. Now of course, that happens much quicker and there is no official amount of time a ball needs to be controlled for a runner to be tagged out.

Dave Campbell, who called the game for ESPN Radio, said that if that call had been made against the Red Sox or Yankees, it would be "Watergate Three." Now, I have no idea what "Watergate Two" was, but I suppose that is irrelevant. Campbell says that the replay for home runs in baseball was installed because of two plays that have happened in New York. He says that if the Sox got the short end of this call that the Boston management would clamor for a rule change. The fact is there is no rule that specifically covers this issue, and it is basically a judgment call. Campbell was upset that there was no conference among the umpires. The more the play is looked at though, the more it just seems that Willits was out. There was too much time between the tag and the loss of the ball.

Campbell argues that if in a collision the ball is dropped, the runner is safe. I counter that by saying, the Red Sox won so the rule, or lack thereof, is fine by me.

The NFL has been pretty strange so far this year. In a nutshell, here it is. The Patriots and Colts are average teams. Eli Manning is better than Peyton. Reggie Bush had almost three hundred all-purpose yards, two punt return touchdowns, and his team lost. The NFC East is perhaps one of the greatest divisions of all-time. The Buffalo Bills are ahead of the Patriots in the standings. The Rams and Lions are fighting for the title of being "The Worst Team In Any Sport Of All Time." And guys named Kerry Collins, Gus Frerotte, Brian Griese and Kyle Orton are all starting quarterbacks in the National Football League.

Speaking of the NFL, they recently announced that Bruce Springsteen will be performing at the Super Bowl halftime show. I think within seconds of the release of this information, I received an email from my mother, perhaps the biggest hater of Bruce on the face of the Earth. Fact is, the Boss can still rock, even at 93 years old.

In the ring, the sport of Boxing may have just received the big break it has been looking for. First of all, Oscar De La Hoya will be fighting number one pound-for-pound fighter in the world, Manny Pacquiao. Any megafight is good for the sport, but coupled with the knockout of Kimbo Slice last weekend, this could be just the break boxing fans have been seeking. Slice was the biggest name in Mixed Martial Arts. MMA has been riding up boxing's shorts for a few years now.

And with this Youtube sensation Slice, MMA had a face for its movement. Slice was knocked out by a no-name in fourteen seconds. The man who dispatched of Kimbo, Seth Petruzelli, said he was told not to take down the big fella. Oops. What this does show is that boxing needs to find a way to get

it's big fights out of the hands of Pay-Per View. Especially with the 'slumping economy, people simply aren't going to want to plunk down 50 dollars to watch a fight, no matter how good it may be. Someone needs to step up to the plate and keep this great sport thriving.

Speaking of free television, the greatest show ever created is finally returning to the airwaves. "24" is back, baby! Kiefer Sutherland is making his comeback to the small screen after his latest DUI. Other than "The Office", this is the only show worth watching on TV. I think someone should find a way to combine Steve Carell and Jack Bauer. Mr. Scorsese, I believe I just found your next Oscar.

In perhaps the strongest form of karma ever, OJ Simpson will most likely be spending the rest of his life in jail. After trying to reclaim "stolen" memorabilia, Simpson was sentenced to three months in a detention center before being sent to prison. Couldn't happen to a nicer guy.

Also, I offer an apology to all Chicago Cubs fans. Just when you think you're out, they drag you back in. Keep fighting the good fight up there on the north side.

If you're looking for some good reading, go the Bill Simmons page on ESPN.com. He wrote a lengthy piece on the "Manipulation of Manny", and his turbulent years in Boston. Fascinating stuff. It really is great having Rick Reilly and Bill Simmons right next to each other on that site.

Finally, I think I speak for all Sox fans, nay, sports fans, when I say that I am praying for a

Sox-Dodgers World Series. That's right up there with my "24/Office" spinoff show. Keep your fingers crossed.

"FLASH OF GENIUS"

by Paul Feely

"FLASH OF GENIUS" stars Greg Kinnear as another likeable, but complex character. This is the true story of the man who invented the intermittent windshield wiper who had his invention stolen.

"FLASH OF GENIUS"

GRADE: **

Greg Kinnear plays another of his likeable but complex characters in Flash of Genius, the true story of the man who invented the intermittent windshield wiper and had his invention stolen.

The movie, a classic David vs. Goliath story, begins in the mid 1960s when Kinnear as Bob Kearns, a college professor and mechanical engineer has the idea, the flash of genius, one rainy afternoon that windshield wipers should have more than two speeds - they should work like a blinking eye.

Back at home in his workshop, away from his adoring kids and patient wife (Lauren Graham), Kearns tinkers around until he's successful. Living in Detroit, home of the big three auto manufacturers, Kearns seems to be in the right place at the right time. He reaches out to his friend Gil (Dermot Mulroney) whose company works closely with the large automakers to try and sell his invention. Ford agrees to take a look at Kearns' invention and seems ready to climb aboard, even agreeing to Kearns' intention to manufacture the wipers himself.

But then Ford backs out of the deal and Kearns, having spent thousands, is financially busted. Worse, he discovers by chance that Ford has bypassed his operation and installed his invention in their automobiles (this scene, which occurs during a glittery auto show display in front of Ford reps is the visual highlight of the film).

Broken, but not beaten, Kearns vows to fight. But in Detroit the odds against him are much worse and soon friends and family are put to the test. The stolen idea hits him so badly it literally drives him crazy and he ends up in a nut house. When he returns home he's beaten down but ready to fight again, especially when a hotshot lawyer (Alan Alda) tells him he's got a case.

Kinnear has had a string of good performances recently, which he continues here. He brings a sense of everyman to the story of Kearns, though one wonders if everyman would have the means, or desire, to keep fighting the good fight as long as he did.

"EAGLE EYE"

GRADE: ***

A tight, jittery conspiracy drama, "Eagle Eye" envisions an all-knowing enemy that can infiltrate any telephone, takeover all television monitors and even manipulate traffic signals to engineer lethal car crashes.

This time, Big Brother isn't just watching us - he wants to make us dance, fool, dance.

Shia LaBeouf stars as Jerry Shaw, a Chicago slacker who comes home one day to find his apartment stuffed with terrorist weaponry. His cell phone rings and a mad-deningly calm voice issues a series of instructions along with the ominous declaration,

"You've been activated."

Across town, single mother Rachel Holloman (Michelle Monaghan) receives a similar call, with a threat that if she doesn't follow her instructions this unseen enemy will kill her young son. Soon Jerry and Michelle are thrown together to carry out a labyrinthine assassination plot against their will.

As a paranoid thriller for paranoid times, "Eagle Eye" pushes the right buttons. For the sake of convenience and national security, we've laid nearly every aspect of our lives in the hands of technology, but at what cost?

"Eagle Eye" is directed by D.J. Caruso, who made "Disturbia," the "Rear Window" homage that starred LaBeouf as the homebound Jimmy Stewart character. Steven Spielberg, who has an executive producer credit, dreamed up the movie's plot.

LaBeouf has perfected the role of slacker-turned-reluctant-hero, and he generally carries the film, even when it occasionally slows down to catch its breath between nifty chase scenes - including a tumbling pursuit through an airport baggage system.

It will be either one of the year's sillier films or one of its most enjoyable ones - or possibly a combination of both, depending on your personality. In either case, the exciting action makes it easier to go down, as does the very good ensemble cast.

"LAKEVIEW TERRACE"

GRADE: ***

Sometimes the personality and persona of a star helps moviegoers overlook the shortcomings of a film's script. That's the case with Samuel L. Jackson in his new film, Lakeview Terrace, a thriller that's initially engaging but winds up imploding thanks to a weak third act.

Chris and Lisa Mattson (Patrick Wilson and Kerry Washington) are an interracial couple who move into a suburban Los Angeles home, next door to Abel Turner (Jackson), a diligent cop who goes out of his way to make the neighborhood safe with his own nightly patrols.

Trouble is, his so-called concern for the Mattsons soon escalates into harassment as this widowed dad views their liberal marriage as an affront to his conservative values and he vows to drive them from their home. His pranks (lights shining in their bedroom, crashing parties) escalate rapidly and soon the Mattsons find themselves fighting for their sanity and their lives with nowhere to turn.

This film reminds viewers

There are seven differences in the second picture. Can you spot them?

ANSWERS: HAT, NOSE, SHOE, ARM, PURSE, NOTE, GLASSES

of Pacific Heights, with the neighbor-from-hell played by Michael Keaton, and Unlawful Entry, starring Ray Liotta as the cop-from-hell. Terrace is no better than these films, and at times it is even more manipulative. Not only is the man next door the neighbor and cop from hell combined, but hell is fast approaching their home, literally, in the form of a raging forest fire knocking on the neighborhood's door.

The cast is decent, but even their efforts, or Jackson's charisma, can't save this film from itself.

"BURN AFTER READING"

GRADE: ***

The new Coen brothers movie, "Burn After Reading," is good while almost great, above average but not quite excellent, as this story about dumb people creating a crippling run of chaos between the CIA and a gym called Hardbodies unfolds.

There are some big laughs, and a major twist that takes the story to another level entirely, but it is unable to maintain that level of greatness.

Here's the plot: When Osborne Cox (John Malkovich), a CIA operative with alcohol and anger-management issues, is demoted for bringing those issues into the workplace, he quits the agency in a rage and sets out to write a scathing memoir in hopes of bringing the CIA down.

Unfortunately for him, those memoirs fall into the hands of his icy wife, Katie (Tilda Swinton), who plans to divorce him in favor of continuing her torrid affair with Harry (George Clooney), an oversexed U.S. marshal who cruises the Internet for sex, has interesting ideas for what constitutes a sex toy, and who is married to a dull children's book writer named Sandy.

It's when Katie inadvertently downloads onto a disc her husband's memoirs while trying to retrieve their financial information that trouble erupts.

The disc finds its way to two half-baked employees at Hardbodies. First up is Chad Feldheimer (Brad Pitt), a power trainer with focus issues who is the biggest dumbbell in the weight room. Second is Linda Lititzke (Frances McDormand), a mess who works at the same gym, but who would prefer to shape her body through the cosmetic surgery she can't afford.

That is, of course, until she and Chad come upon Cox's memoirs, which they believe are filled with the sort of national secrets that could earn them plenty if they either blackmailed the easily infuriated Cox or, if that didn't work out, sold the information to the Russians.

"Burn" is good, particularly given the performances from Pitt, McDormand, Clooney and J.K. Simmons, but no one will argue that this film is on the same level as the last Coen brothers effort, the Academy-Award-winning "No Country for Old Men."

IDEAS OF THE WEEK...FOR ALL SEASONS!

A perfect climate (Wakefield)

Wakefield Climate Action Project (WCAP) is now forming Action Teams to take on a number of new projects and expand its educational depth and reach," notes the Wakefield edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Starting with ideas gathered from Wakefield residents visiting its booth at the Festival by the Lake, WCAP's brainstorming meeting confirmed the importance of its original educational mission and paved the way for more action in our community. WCAP was founded in February, 2007.

"It was a great meeting," said Wendy Dennis, one of the WCAP founders. "I found it heartening to be reminded that just providing information and publicity about global warming and carbon emissions is very important work. But, I am also pleased that WCAP will now also be providing an organizational foundation that will help people transform what we, as local and global citizens, are learning into effective projects."

"A number of recycling ideas, including composting, were discussed, but since the Creative Revenue Forum (CRF) already has a team working on 'green' ways to reduce expenses and create revenue for the Town of Wakefield, it makes sense for folks who want to work on that angle to join forces with the CRF Environmental Action Team...."

All are welcome: www.wakefieldcap.org.

Little shop of...delights (Reading)

"The Reading Chronicle, in cooperation with the Reading Economic Development Committee is bringing Reading businesses literally to your home!" notes the Reading edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"The Shop Around the Corner" is a new profile series of the many businesses that bring vitality to Reading. We hope as our Downtown Improvement project takes shape, you'll patronize and support all your local businesses who choose to 'hang their shingle' in our town.

"Business Name: The Hitching Post. Date of Establishment: 1961. What are your Products/Services: The Hitching Post is a full service gift shop, providing quality giftware and greeting cards for all occasions. We specialize in 'Reading' products and greeting cards from independent card companies, but we also carry pewter, stained glass, pottery, glassware, women's accessories, woodenware, Boston items, jewelry and more. Many of our items are handcrafted by local artisans. Our knowledgeable staff is ready to assist customers and happy to box & bow purchases at no additional charge.

"The Hitching Post Associates: Leslie Leahy, Peggy Cox, Nancy Cleary, Beverly Delaney, Kathy Speen. Do you have a personal connection to Reading? Yes, I live in Reading with my husband and two children, who are graduates of the Reading school system. Reading is a great community to raise a family in...!"

A tree for all (Stoneham)

"Have you ever wondered how you get a beautification award?" notes the "Stoneham Independent."

"How a local business or civic organization is selected for their property improvements? It's easy. You decide. You simply nominate a friend or neighbor or yourself for an award and the Town's Beautification Awards Committee does the rest!"

"The Committee, under the auspices of the Board of Selectmen, is pleased to announce the third year of the Stoneham Beautification Award program that recognizes individuals, organizations, community groups, and businesses that improve the quality of life in Stoneham by improving the appearance of the Town."

"Bill Previdi, Chairman of the Beautification Awards Committee, remarks, 'Nominate a project that has improved your neighborhood or the Town's physical appearance. Projects need to be visually or physically accessible to the general public. They can be as small as a well-designed window box or as large as a major development. Nominated buildings and renovations need to have been completed within the last two years.'

"A panel of volunteer judges will prescreen the entries, and the final selection process will include a site visit to the top entries. The program encourages attractive landscaping improvements and well-designed buildings or renovations in our community. Single- or multi-family residences, apartment complexes, homeowners associations, and non-profit or commercial properties are all eligible for awards. Awards will be made early in the fall to allow a variety of garden types and buildings to be considered."

"The program strives to encourage greater public awareness of building design and landscaping in environmental beautification. As a community, the way in which we use, improve, and maintain our homes, landscaping, buildings and gardens expresses an image of Stoneham. The Award program is intended to help promote and enhance this image both within Stoneham and beyond our borders. The

SPORTS SHORTS

MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS WEEKLY TRIVIA QUESTION: Before last Tuesday's Twins-White Sox game, when was the last time there was an American League tie breaker to decide a playoff spot?

Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

Hamilton College men's golfers JEFF CORBETT '09 (STONEHAM) and Brad Roche '11 (Cold Spring Harbor, N.Y./Taft School [Conn.]) earned spots on the 2008 New England Small College Athletic Conference all-conference team on Sept. 30.

The all-conference team was based on performances in the NESCAC Championship Qualifier at Middlebury College's Ralph Myhre Golf Course on Sept. 27 and 28. Eight golfers made the first team and nine more landed on the second team.

Corbett made the all-conference team for the third consecutive year. He finished second overall in the qualifier and ended up on the first team after he fired a 1-under-par round of 70 on Saturday and came back with a 72 on Sunday. Corbett's two-day total of 142 is his best at Hamilton.

Roche was the 2007 NESCAC Rookie of the Year and a member of the first team. This year he captured second team honors. Roche carded a 73 on Saturday and took a 78 on Sunday for a 36-hole total of 151. He finished in ninth place out of 50 golfers.

Corbett and Roche led the Continentals to third place in the 10-team qualifier. Hamilton advanced to next spring's NESCAC championship for the second straight year. The top four teams from the qualifier advance to the 2009 championship, which will also be held at Middlebury because the Panthers finished first, in April.

After using three long scoring drives and a solid defensive performance to end a three-game slide, the Bentley Falcons, with the 17-14 win over Stonehill recently, evened its Northeast-10 record at 1-1 and improved to 2-3 overall.

FRESHMAN MATT WELCH (WOBBURN), a 245-pound fullback, was Bentley's top rusher against Stonehill, gaining 57 yards on 13 carries.

The solid rushing effort helped Bentley put together three quality scoring drives: 14 plays for 56 yards, 11 plays for 37 and 12 for 54. All ate up at least five-and-a-minutes off the clock.

Need some help with this week's question? The two teams involved were the Seattle Mariners and the Angels.

Six former Westfield State standouts, including a Reading native, will be inducted into the college's Athletics Hall of Fame during the 2008 Alumni Weekend. The 13th annual inductions will be held Friday evening, Oct. 17, in Scanlon Banquet Hall on the Westfield State campus.

READING NATIVE RUSS BOSBACH ('80) is one of the most versatile athletes in the storied history of the Owls' track and field program; David Brown ('94) led the Owls to three straight postseason appearances in basketball; Chuck Carucci ('92) was a record-setting defensive back for the Westfield State football squad; Russ Hammond ('73) was a two-sport standout in baseball and basketball the early 1970s; Kim Hatstat ('93) was a soccer star and All America javelin thrower; and Robyn Wainwright ('94) is considered the finest point guard in Westfield State history.

For ticket information, contact 413-572-5433.

Bosbach ('80) is considered one of the most versatile and talented athletes in the storied history of the Westfield State track and field program.

Bosbach also was the consummate "team" athlete, sacrificing his personal goals in an era when the Owls developed into a New England power. He was a member of four Massachusetts State College Athletics Conference (MASCAC) championship teams and a senior leader on Westfield State's first New England Division III championship in 1980.

In a superb display of his talents, Bosbach competed in five events in the 1978 MASCAC championships. He won the 110 high hurdles and placed second in the 400 hurdles, long jump, triple jump and high jump.

In addition, Bosbach had an inspirational effort during the 1980 New England Division III championships, when he placed fourth in the intermediate hurdles and third in the triple jump despite taking only one jump attempt because of an ankle injury.

Bosbach was an All-New England performer nine times and qualified for the 1978 NCAA Division III national championships in the triple jump. He held school records in the triple jump (46-7 1/2) and 120 yard high hurdles (15.4).

In high school, Bosbach was the Class B state champion in both the triple jump and high hurdles while leading Reading to the 1975 state team title. He also captured the All-State triple jump championship and placed second in the New England championships. He was inducted into the Reading High School Hall of Fame in 2003.

Concentrating primarily on one event, Bosbach excelled at even higher levels following his graduation from Westfield State. He won the 1981 and 1982 USA Track and Field New England championships at Boston College with triple jumps of 47-8 and 48-4, respectively.

In the Eastern Masters Championships in 1991, he was first in the high jump, second in the high hurdles and second in the triple jump. He competed in the masters indoor national championships at the Reggie Lewis Center in Boston from 1998 to 2002. He triple jumped more than 42 feet at the age of 40 in 1998 to place third nationally. He placed fifth nationally in 2002 with a high jump of 5-6.

Bosbach remains active in track and field as the official starter for Lexington High School meets. He also has coached at Reading and Acton Boxboro High Schools.

Professionally, Bosbach is an active volunteer with disabled sports and special needs programs, including the Special Olympics and Access Sport America. For the past 25 years he has been an adaptive physical education teacher: two years at Perkins School for the Blind in Watertown, 11 years at a private school in West Newton, and since 1997 in the Lexington public schools.

Bosbach resides in Acton with his wife, Nancy Tarquinio, and two sons: Sam, a junior and UMass Amherst, and Ben, a freshman at Acton-Boxboro High School.

ANSWER TO THIS WEEK'S TRIVIA QUESTION: The year was 1995, when the Mariners defeated the Angels for the AL West crown.

DO YOU KNOW SOMETHING WE DON'T? If you have information about a local athlete that you would like to see appear in this column, please email it to readingchronicle@comcast.net, or mail it to: Paul Feely, Middlesex East Sports, P.O. Box 240, Reading, Ma., 01867, or call Paul at 781-944-2200.

Just the facts...

Understanding Alzheimer's disease

Despite first being described more than 100 years ago, Alzheimer's disease remains a mystery for many reasons. Much of that mystery surrounds the causes of Alzheimer's, which are still unknown.

Named for German physician Alois Alzheimer, Alzheimer's disease was first described in 1906. While much has been studied since then, the precise cause, and a subsequent cure, is still difficult to pinpoint. However, since Dr. Alzheimer first described the disease more than a century ago, much has been learned about it, and families would be wise to ascertain as much as possible about this disease.

What Is Alzheimer's?

According to the Alzheimer's Association, Alzheimer's disease is a progressive and fatal brain disease. As the disease progresses, brain cells are destroyed, resulting in problems with memory, thinking and carrying on daily activities. For some patients, the disease progresses rapidly. Such patients will quickly lose their abilities to perform daily activities, including work, hobbies and maintaining a social life. Others, however, can maintain relatively normal lifestyles long after their initial diagnosis.

Though it's common to assume dementia is a part of Alzheimer's, that's not entirely true. Alzheimer's is actually a form of dementia and is, in fact, the most common form. In some instances, Alzheimer's combines with another common dementia, vascular dementia, wherein blood flow to the brain is reduced. Because the brain is so connected, when one area begins to deteriorate or slow down, that negatively affects the rest of the body as well. Therefore, when Alzheimer's settles in, the rest of the body is affected, be it rapidly or gradually.

What Are the Risk Factors?

Chances are, before Dr. Alzheimer first described the disease, Alzheimer's was likely just considered a normal part of aging. While age is the greatest risk factor (most individuals with the disease are over the age of 65), there are other considerable risk factors as well.

- * Family history: Over the years, research has indicated that those with a parent, brother or sister with Alzheimer's are at a greater risk for the disease than those without a family history. What's more, the risk further increases for those with more than one family member with Alzheimer's.

- * Head injury: As research continues, it reveals other potential risk factors besides heredity and genetics. One such development is the link between serious head injury and Alzheimer's. The Alzheimer's Organization advocates protecting your head by buckling your seat belt, wearing a helmet when riding a bicycle or motorcycle, and, particularly for the elderly, fall-proofing a home.

- * Connection of the head and the heart: Research has also begun to show the relationship between heart ailments and Alzheimer's disease. Because the heart is responsible for pumping blood to the brain (each heartbeat pumps roughly 20 to 25 percent of your blood to your head), ailments such as heart disease, high blood pressure, stroke, and diabetes can have adverse effects on brain health as well. That, in turn, can increase a person's risk for Alzheimer's disease.

- * Unhealthy lifestyle: How healthily a person ages can also play a role in increasing or decreasing the risk factor for Alzheimer's disease. The Alzheimer's organization notes that healthy aging may help keep the brain healthy and protect it from Alzheimer's. Healthy aging involves maintaining a healthy weight, avoiding tobacco and excess alcohol consumption, and exercising regularly.

What Are the Warning Signs?

While there are warning signs indicative of Alzheimer's, just because a person exhibits the following signs does not mean that person has Alzheimer's. Some might just be a part of aging. However, to be on the safe side, it's best for anyone exhibiting the following signs to consult their physician.

- * Memory loss
- * Problems with language
- * Difficulty performing familiar tasks
- * Disorientation, notably forgetting where they are or how they got there
- * Poor or decreased judgment
- * Rapid mood swings or changes in behavior
- * Noticeable changes in personality

- * Loss of initiative

Simple ways to get healthier

Optimal health is the goal for most people, but even the biggest of exercise buffs would likely admit there's room for improvement.

Much of that room for improvement lies in what we eat. Diet and exercise go hand in hand, so even if you spend ample time at the gym, you might not be as healthy as you think if you're not combining those workouts with a proper diet. While a diet can seem like a lifestyle overhaul, eating healthier doesn't have to involve so much sweat and sacrifice. Below are some easy dieting tips that, when combined with exercise, can help you become both healthier and happier.

- * Eat your fruits and veggies. Fruits are more than just great sources of vitamins, antioxidants and fiber. They also fill up your stomach fast, lessening the hunger pangs that many find overwhelming when adjusting their diets. And because fruits and veggies are low in calories, they'll fit nicely into a diet for people who are intent on counting their calories.

- * Don't skip meals. Skipping meals is counterproductive and unhealthy to boot. Missing meals makes us hungrier, which increases the likelihood we'll overeat when we finally do eat a meal. Rather than skipping meals or sticking to the traditional three hearty meals per day, eating several smaller meals can be more beneficial. This helps balance the daily caloric intake better than three spread out meals.

- * Reduce portions. Even if what you eat is healthy, how much you eat might not be. Consider a dish of whole-wheat pasta. That can make for a healthy dinner, but only if you stick to the serving size, which is usually 1/2 cup of cooked pasta for a single serving. Now, consider that a restaurant serving of pasta is typically 2 cups, which equals four servings. If you stick to recommended portions of healthy foods, you'll be fine. But larger portions, even of healthy foods, are not good for you.

- * Bring your lunch to work. Many people are fond of going out to lunch every day at work. Unfortunately, lunch is when many people eat packaged or processed foods, such as those sold at fast food restaurants. By simply bringing a healthy lunch to work every day, you're far more likely to lose weight and keep it off. You can still leave the office for lunch, but you'll be eating healthier and likely saving money as well.

- * Take it easy on yourself. Just because you're trying to eat healthier and possibly shed some extra pounds doesn't mean you have to live like a monk. If there's one special treat you especially like, such as an ice cream sundae or a hamburger, don't be afraid to indulge every so often. While it shouldn't be a daily occurrence, a small treat every now and again will help you maintain your sanity, and you're far less likely to succumb to a dietary relapse if you indulge every so often.

- * It's not just what you eat, but what you drink as well. Dieting isn't just about food but beverages as well. Sugary drinks, such as sodas, coffees with cream and sugar, tea with sugar, and some mixed alcoholic beverages, can have a negative impact on your every day diet. In lieu of such beverages, try a minimum of eight glasses of water per day.

School Notes

IN FULL SWING

by Phyllis Nissen

Until Nov. 15 (Burlington)

"State Treasurer Tim Cahill, chairman of the Massachusetts School Building Authority (MSBA) and Katherine Craven, MSBA executive director, announced that the MSBA will be extending the Statement of Interest (SOI) submission deadline until Nov. 15, 2008," notes the Burlington edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"The decision was made after receiving feedback from superintendents, school business officials, and other local officials."

"The extended deadline will provide districts with more time to prepare and submit properly and thoughtfully completed SOIs that clearly identify any deficiencies and problems at the school facilities in their district."

"The critical first step to be considered for participation in the MSBA's construction and renovation program is submitting an SOI electronically through the MSBA's on-line web-based SOI system."

"Within an SOI, districts are asked to specify any potential school building deficiencies and any resulting negative educational impact. The selection of school projects for the MSBA funding through the MSBA's new program is a competitive process where grants will be directed to school projects that present the greatest need and urgency for capital improvements."

"Once a school project is selected, the MSBA and the local community will collaborate to develop a solution that makes educational and financial sense."

"At a School Committee meeting, board members and the administration expressed frustration over delays with the SBA, based on its application to have the Memorial School gutted and renovated, or razed and rebuilt."

"Burlington has submitted the same plans several times, and answered the same questions before the SBA several times, and officials believe this has caused unnecessary delays."

"SBA board members change from one meeting to the next, Director of Operations and Finance Craig Robinson has said, a main reason why questions about plans are repeatedly asked."

"Robinson said (before this recent decision) that Burlington's proposal is one of 83 on the front list of the SBA's priorities...."

A walking bus (Wakefield)

"What if there was a way to energize your day, get fit and combat childhood obesity, talk and connect with your child and neighbors, save money on gas, avoid traffic jams, and help the environment - all at the same time?" notes the Wakefield edition of the

"Daily Times Chronicle."

"The simple act of walking your child to school can accomplish that and more. Many people remember a time when walking or biking to school was the norm rather than the exception. Factors such as concern for safety and lack of time have caused a steady decline to a current low of about 10 percent."

"The innovative concept of a walking school bus addresses such issues. A walking school bus is a group of children accompanied by one or more adults on the walk to or from school."

"The group may meet at one place and walk together or children may be 'picked up' at their homes or at spots along the way."

"Wakefield Climate Action Project (WCAP) Transportation Action Team has met in the downstairs Lecture Hall of the Lucius Beebe Memorial Library to plan a pilot elementary level walking program, possibly at the Dolbeare, beginning this fall."

"Parents, caregivers and concerned citizens are always welcome. Contact Sherri Carlson at sjcarlson21@verizon.net or (781)246-2106 with any questions or if you would like to help."

"International Walk to School Day USA is October 8, and October is International Walk to School Month. Visit www.walkingschoolbus.org, www.saferoutesinfo.org and www.walktoschool.org for walk to school information. For further information on WCAP, visit www.wakefieldcap.org."

On behalf of the police (North Reading)

"When Scott Chapman was on his deathbed in 2005 suffering from the effects of alcoholism, his sister-in-law Michelle promised him his story would not end that way," notes the "North Reading Transcript."

"In January of 2006, Scott's family established the Scott E. Chapman Foundation, a 501(c)(3) organization, to celebrate his life and generate awareness of alcoholism and drug addiction."

"Scott's brother Christopher and Michelle presented a $4,000 check to the North Reading Police Department to bolster drug and alcohol awareness programs following town budget cuts."

"Christopher and Michelle Chapman, of Waltham, said the foundation runs fundraisers and benefits in order to make these grants to local communities. The check presented will fund the department's school resource officers program."

"The program will be overseen by Sgt. Joe Thibodeau. Officer Mike LeBlanc is the resource officer for grade 6, officer Kevin Donle for grade 7. Officer Tom Hatch, who initiated the department's application to the Chapman Foundation, is the resource officer for the high school."

"Chief Edward Nolan expressed the department's gratitude to the Chapmans

Solid hardwoods function in every room

Easy care and repair make them natural choice

Solid Hardwoods Function in Every Room of the House: Easy Care and Repair Make Them the Natural Choice

What can you buy today that will last a lifetime with minimal care? We get new cars every six or eight years, and they require plenty of service and repairs along the way; new appliances barely last a dozen years. But solid hardwood flooring, furniture and millwork can last a lifetime in every room of the house. According to the American Hardwood Information Center, solid hardwood products are easy to take care of in any room of the house and require very little care to maintain their good looks and serviceability.

In addition to their distinctive beauty and lasting value, hardwood floors are often recommended by doctors because they trap less animal dander, dust, pollen, mites, and mold - all of which can trigger respiratory problems. Natural hardwood floors can make it easier for you to reduce home allergens, while your rooms remain warm and inviting.

Following a few simple rules can keep floors looking great with minimum maintenance:

- * Place floor mats at entrances to trap dirt.
- * Sweep floors weekly with brooms that have fine, exploded ends that trap dust and grit.
- * Vacuum cleaners aren't just for carpets. Go over a hardwood floor weekly with multi-surface vacuums
- * Water and liquids can damage the floor's finish. Wipe up spills, pet accidents, and other mishaps as soon as possible.

Kitchens were once considered out-of-bounds for solid hardwood flooring. Today's urethane finishes make hardwood floors an attractive choice that is easy to maintain and keep clean. Special finishes even permit hardwood floors and tub surrounds in the bath. They offer water resistance that old-fashioned versions never could.

Solid hardwood furniture offers greater resistance to marring and scratching than furniture constructed with substitute materials. A few nicks in an heirloom can add character rather than detract from the value.

Here are some tips for caring for these future antiques:

- * Keep furniture out of direct sunlight, or adjust curtains during mid-day hours.
- * Avoid placement directly in front of radiators, heat runs or fireplaces.
- * Hardwood furniture likes a relative humidity of at least 25 to 35 percent. Use a humidifier in winter and an air conditioner in summer.
- * Store table leaves as close as possible to the table. Keep them in an upstairs closet rather than a damp basement so that table and leaves are adjusting to the same humidity conditions.
- * Dust weekly with a clean, slightly damp cloth. Avoid silicone sprays which can break down the finish.
- * Remove water marks with 0000 gauge steel wool. Gently rub with the grain and buff with a soft cloth.
- * Never use brass polish on hardware while it is on the furniture. The polish will get into the wood, withstand normal wear and tear and everyday household abuse.

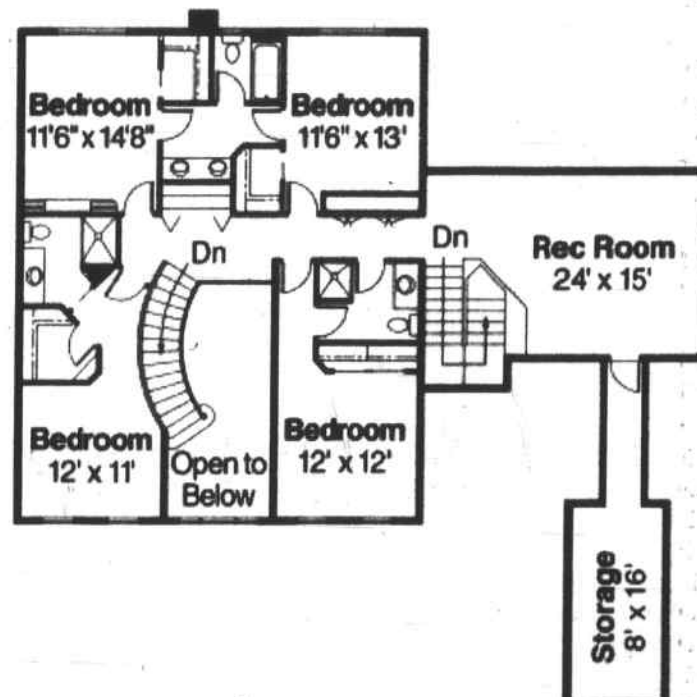

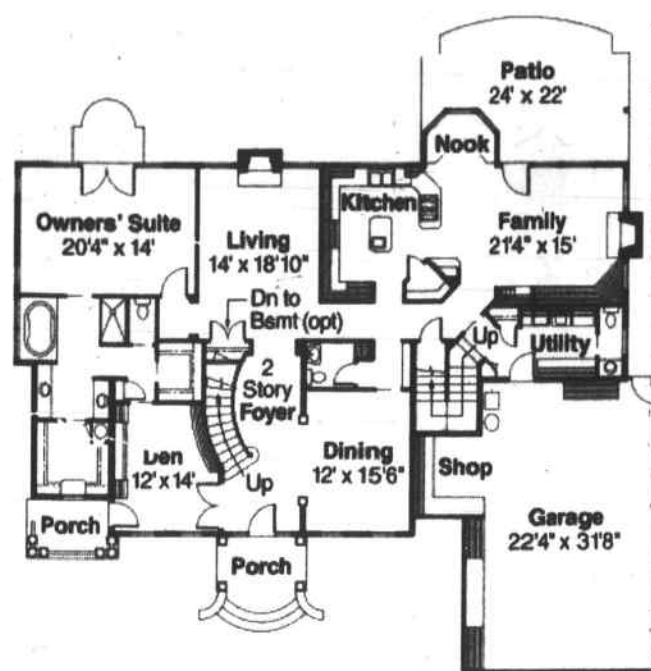

Mouldings Make a Difference

Woodwork does for a home what a fine frame does for a painting. Woodwork options include paneling, wainscoting, window casings and sills, doors and door jambs, staircases, fireplace mantels, and shelving. Solid hardwood woodwork is preferred for its natural and distinctive look and ease of repair. It holds nails well, miters easily, and readily accepts stains and protective finishes. Upkeep is easy, too, with hardwood mouldings and trim:

- * Clean and dust to restore luster to the finish and to protect the wood.
- * Repair scratches by sanding out with a fine grade of paper and restaining with a matching color finish.

More living space, outdoor kitchens are in

When the real estate market is tight and homeowners still need more living space, many turn their sights outdoors.

That is why many homeowners are putting a backyard outdoor kitchen on their front burners. Beauty and economy are just two of the reasons. When constructed on a paver patio, it becomes the least expensive room addition at approximately $10 to $15 a square foot, compared to $85 to $100 a square foot for a new room addition.

Among the other advantages of pavers is that, when they are finished, they look very much like elegant tiles or cut stone. They don't crack and come in many shapes, colors and textures.

Also popular in the backyard are fire pits, fireplaces and hot tubs. All of which are easy on the budget compared to indoor improvements.

Interlocking pavers are also popular in the front of the home. For walkways and driveways, they are one of the most versatile and customizable options. Homeowners may be glad to know that pavers resist deterioration from deicing salts and harsh climatic changes better than other pavements.

For many homeowners, however, it's the vast array of colors, shapes, sizes and textures that make concrete pavers such a popular option for any project that demands character and personality. In addition, the pavers are easy to install, and should they need repair, that's easily done.

These types of home improvement not only make the home more livable, they can help to maintain or even increase the home's value when it comes time to sell.

This week's sampler: The Palmary

The Palmary is a colonial-style home with traditional detailing. Its symmetrical central section has all the right touches, from the arched and columned entry porch, to shuttered multi-paned windows and attic dormers.

Inside, the layout is a comfortable blend of classic styling and contemporary amenities, starting with the elegant curved staircase that sweeps up the left side of the lofty two-story foyer. Move past it to step through an arch into a bright living room with a wide masonry hearth.

Columns flank another arched opening that leads to an elegant dining room with a stepped ceiling and applied molding detailing. Double doors on the foyer's opposite side open into a den which connects to the owners' suite. This room could serve as a home office, study or computer room.

Family room, kitchen and nook flow together in a bright and spacious informal living space. The kitchen offers a wealth of storage and work areas, including a central work island with veggie sink, and a walk-in pantry. Standing at the range, you can talk with people in the family room, gaze outside through rear windows, or watch flames dance in the fireplace. In the family room, a large entertainment center and small beverage bar fill one wall.

One powder room nestles in the passageway to the dining room. Another is at the far end of a utility room that connects with the side-entry three-car garage. A second stairway provides alternate access to the four bedrooms, three bathrooms, recreation and storage rooms upstairs.

Large and luxurious, the Palmary's owners' suite boasts two roomy walk-in closets, a Jacuzzi tub, oversized shower, private toilet and dual vanities.
